1. Background

Around 2010, I got the hint that I would be suspected of the murder of Prime Minister Olof Palme. My knowledge of the crime was by then confined to what I have heard and seen in Swedish media. I then started searching information on Internet. After a few weeks, it became quite clear to me that the US intelligence agency, CIA, had a central role as a conspirator in the assassination. When I researched further on the Swedish private investigator's websites and read some books that dealt with the murder, it opened doors to other murders. I realized then that attempts had been made to compromise me also for these murders. When I investigated further about the reason why I had been compromised, I could find only one connection; my father Sixten Westerlund. He had for most of his life been an active politician for the Communist Party. I have never been active in politics. I found that the blow up of the communist newspaper, Norrskensflamman, 1940, must be the real reason why I had been compromised. Evidently I didn't have anything to do with the attack, but my relationship to Sixten has been enough to the conspirators when they chosen to compromised me.

Today, in 2017, I have unfolded the essential elements of this story. What I'm presenting in this blog is probably only the tip of the iceberg. The more I research, the more has been revealed. During the latter part of 2016, I have investigated about my family tree. I have found my biological origins within the royalist Europe. I was adopted close up to my birth by spouses Sixten and Johanne Westerlund in 1946. My royalist origin has been of great importance to the conspirators.

I would like to extend my thanks to the investigative journalists and authors who reviewed the current legal cases. Without their contributions I had not been able to complete my analysis.

2. CIA

The CIA is located in Langley, Virginia, USA. The organization in its current form was created in 1947. Its main task is to provide the U.S. government and a number of authorities with intelligence information . In conjunction with Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor ,in 1941 ,serious shortcomings in the U.S. military intelligence were revealed. Under the leadership of President Truman shortly thereafter The OSS ( Office of Strategic Services ) was formed , which then became the forerunner of the CIA. Today it has about 16,000 employees within the main organization in the United States. Global operates about 1 million individuals within the organization. The author Mr. William Blum ( has been working for the CIA ) is one of the persons who attempted to map the CIA's activities . He has compiled the following:

The list of prominent foreigners where the United States since the end of World War II have been involved in murder or planned to assassinate contains according to William Blum following names:

Blum is the author of the book "The CIA and America's real foreign policy," Epsilon Press, 1998. The above list is presented in the book. The main contents of the book have been published in several editions - the first already in 1986.

The CIA had its golden age in the 50s and 60s. You could say that the organization became a state within a state. Its main task was to fight communism throughout the world. Already shortly after the Second World War it was clear to the American politicians that Moscow had the ambition to export its ideology to other regions. The Soviet Union made sure that the marionettes that they added to the so-called Satellite States fulfilled their duties. Any attempt at secession was crushed by force. One of the most notorious examples was the Hungarian uprising in 1956.

During the 50's and 60's the Western European middle class was brought to the consciousness of the colonial barbarism practised around the world. Usually it was radical leftist movements in Western Europe who revealed the prevailing ills. They demanded freedom for the colonies that suffered. The situation was considered particularly severe on the African continent. A number of conflicts flared up in the corrupt colonies. This resulted in increased commitments of the United Nations. Dag Hammarskjöld was the UN Secretary General for the period 1953 - 1961. He became deeply involved in the African conflicts until his tragic death. In September 1961 Hammarskjöld and his associates were on a flight in North Rhodesia (now Zambia). They had planned negotiations with the leaders of the breakaway province Katanga. Shortly before they were to land in Ndola the plane crashed. All 16 on board were killed. The investigators concluded that it was an accident. In the 00's, a number of investigative journalists and authors revived the investigation about the "accident". Several witness statements from people on the ground suggest that Hammarskjöld's DC 6 was attacked by two fighter aircraft just before the crash. They could see "fireballs" at the plane. The question marks are many about this event, but evidence suggests that the CIA and the British secret service MI5 are behind this operation.

Hammarskjöld's "crime" was that he had expressed sympathy for the African Freedom Fighters cause. He then came to constitute a threat to the colonizers major economic interests (gold, diamonds) in the region. These thought they had no other alternative than to eliminate Hammarskjöld.

When studying Blum's death list, there is one name that stands out, namely Charles de Gaulle, president of France. He was a nationalist and conservative. He had a background as a general in the French army. How did he end up on the CIA's death list? Couldn't de Gaulle be the perfect partner to the CIA because he was not a Communist? That simple is (unfortunately) not the CIA's logic. The truth is that anyone who has the audacity to go against the CIA's political conception risk's to be eliminated. Then it doesn't matter if he is a communist or not.

Algeria had served as a French colony since the mid-1800's. The Algerian people had never accepted the French authority. The armed uprisings were many. In the mid-1950's, the Algerian FLN guerrilla movement succeeded in freeing some areas that could later be used as bases for continued warfare. France increased its military presence and had at most about 500 000 soldiers on the ground. France's military successes was absent. In the meantime opposition to the war within the French public opinion raised. In 1958 de Gaulle was appointed as the new president. With his military background he had realized the hopelessness of continuing warfare in Algeria. He then sought political solutions. This was dismissed by the CIA and the French generals who were resident in Algeria. They thought that the country would become a Soviet satellite state if the guerrillas were allowed to take over. In 1961 the generals made a coup attempt. Under the leadership of General Challe they proclaimed a takeover in Algeria. Challe had previously held the post as supreme commander of NATO's Allied Forces in Central Europe. After four days, the coup had been suppressed. Seven years of war was over. In 1962 the Algerians voted for independence and the 3rd of July the country was proclaimed as an independent state.

In 1960 France detonated its first nuclear bomb. It took place in the Algerian desert. France had established itself as one of the world's strongest nuclear powers. US still had military bases in France - all in accordance with the agreements reached after WW 2. After the war ended French colonial interests, including Indochina, collided with the United States. Because of this there was resistance within the French military regarding the US military presence in France. The relationship between Paris and Washington deteriorated further after the assassination of John F. Kennedy, in 1963. From photos of Kennedy's funeral, one can see how de Gaulle stands at attention, in his general's uniform, at Kennedy's coffin. America's new president, Lyndon B. Johnson, was not the interlocutor that de Gaulle wanted. Differences in opinions regarding France's role in NATO finally caused de Gaulle, in February 1966, to give NATO and the United States a deadline for when the bases in France would be under French control - or liquidated.

Blum writes that between 1958 and the mid-60s there were about 30 serious attempted murder of Charles de Gaulle. "It is said that it is a world record for a head of state," Blum writes. He does not mention what might be behind all of these attempted murders - but an educated guess may be the right-wing terrorist organization OAS, which had its base in the Algerian capital. OAS "speciality" was to blow up innocent Algerians in the air.

In the following Blum is referring to a front page article in the Chicago Tribune in 1975:

In 1965 or 1966 it's said that dissidents in de Gaulle's government have contacted the CIA for help with the murdering of the French leader .....

..... A hired killer, armed with a finger ring containing poison would be hidden in a group of old French soldiers when General de Gaulle held a reception for them. The murderer would act late in the day when it was supposed that de Gaulle's hand would be exhausted and perhaps even numb after shaking hundreds of hands. The killer should in mortal friendship shake the general's hand and he would not notice the little poison twinge when it went through his skin. The killer would then stroll away and mix with the crowd while the poison started to flow through de Gaulle's veins to reach the heart or brain, depending on what deadly poison was to be used. How fast death would occur were not disclosed if it even was discussed then.

In the outlined plans presented to congressional leaders there was no description of how the CIA's actual role would be if the plans were completed.

Charles de Gaulle died peacefully at his home, in 1970, at age 80.

William Blum presents 55 cases in his book where the CIA intervened in the period 1945 - 1991. As the book only spans about 500 pages it becomes relatively short depictions for each intervention. Yet it's more than enough to the reader to get an insight into how the CIA and their military collaborators look at the world.

In Blum's depiction of the various interventions given the Communist threat is almost exclusively mentioned as reason. Even in regions where Communism has been an unknown concept to the residents they have justified the interventions because of "Communism". It has basically been irrelevant what motives been cited by the CIA and the military as long as the word "Communism" is inserted in the reporting. The main purpose of the reporting has been to keep members of the Congress in a good mood. That's where it's determined what appropriations the CIA would get. The CIA has also made sure that the various operations are presented as if they are rested on legal grounds. Human rights violations, etc. do not occur. In this way they wanted to give US politicians a picture of "decency". The reality has been proved to be another. Terrible atrocities and mass executions of innocent people (including women and children) have taken place in several operations. The only "fault" that has been burdened those executed have been that they were in a "Communist" area. Another element is biological warfare. Here they have spread deadly airborne virus that made the "Communists" become ill and unable to battle. The list is long but I limit myself to these examples.

William Blum and a number of other American authors in the "business" have primarily aimed at an international audience. We know that "revelations" can get a much better effect if they become known to the US allies on other continents. In Western Europe support for human rights remains strong. The CIA's and the US military's enormous offence to international law around the world must be brought to the light.

3. Sixten Westerlund

My father, Sixten Westerlund, was active in local politics for about 20 years. In 1941 he married my mother, Johanne Arnesen, who had arrived as a refugee from a war-torn Northern Norway. For a period in the 60's , he was the chairman of the Communist Party at Arjeplog's Municipality , Norrbotten County ( 66° 3'5.42" 17°53'24.19" ).

Meeting with the School Board. Photo taken about 1956.

During my childhood I was told many stories about Nazi atrocities, partly from Sixten , but also from my Norwegian relatives . Sixten was known for his anti-Nazi views during the war years. He was under surveillance by the Police at Arjeplog during this period. He was also considered for detention in the political prison camp Storsien. Sweden held about 700 political prisoners during WW 2.

During the 60s, he let me know that he and several other leading communists at Arjeplog was monitored by the Swedish national security agency Säpo. Telephone tapping and letter opening were the methods used. I found this odd since Sixten was known throughout the community as a decent fellow. He had his own firm within the painting industry with about 5 employees. The knowledge of monitoring meant that I definitely said no to all forms of political engagement. The Cold War raged at it's worst during the 60's and 70's. U.S. demands on Sweden were crystal clear:

Keep all leading communists under surveillance.

The situation was particularly sensitive in Norrbotten. The area is of great strategic importance to NATO. It was feared that there might be Communists who spied on the behalf of the Soviet Union. Säpo's job was to capture these alleged spies. In the communist hunt that went on during this period several innocent people ended up trapped. The best known case is the so-called Morjärv Man:

<http://www.morjarvmannen.se>

I wish for clarity mention that we, Sixten Westerlund and Per Westerlund, never existed in any criminal records. Säpo's insinuation of us as criminals is and will remain a figment of their imagination.

The Blow Up Of Norrskensflamman, 1940

Literature: Attentatet mot Norrskensflamman. Author: Ulf Oldberg. Publisher: Bonniers, 1972.

The blow up of the Communist newspaper Norrskensflamman is considered to be the worst act of terror that ever has taken place in Sweden. The reason why I'm exposing it is to point to the political Vendetta that followed in the wake of the crime.

Mr. Oldberg has conducted numerous interviews with people who were direct witnesses to the attack or otherwise affected. In order to grasp the political temperature before and after the attack, he has gone through an extensive newspaper material. Many well known chroniclers are referenced. His main objective has been to explain how the crime could happen. The book thus becomes a showdown with the Fascism.

To check Oldberg's information I've taken part of the extensive preliminary investigation against the perpetrators. It's public and available at Krigsarkivet, Arninge, Stockholm. I believe that the testimonies from those who were in the vicinity of the crime scene by the detonation has high credibility. As a separate part in the investigation are the perpetrators testimonies. This part has been proven to be a fake report created by the Swedish Police. I conclude that Oldberg's book has high credibility.

Background

In September 1939 the German Nazis invaded Poland. This was followed shortly thereafter by declarations of war against France and England. The prologue to The Second World War had been presented.

The Soviet Union had earlier in 1939 noticed the German sabre-rattling. In August a non-aggression pact with Germany was signed (The Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact). The Soviet leaders, with Josef Stalin at the head, had realized that it was time to prepare for war. When looking westward they found that Finland could very well be a battle zone at a German invasion attempt. It was found that Leningrad would be one of the cities that were in danger. The land area, The Karelian Isthmus, between Lake Ladoga and the Gulf of Finland belonged to Finland and bordered to the Soviet Union. The area would be strategically important for the defence of Leningrad. In October 1939 Stalin demanded that Finland would move its border westwards at this section. He also demanded to make lease of the isle Hangö which was strategically important for the control of the inlet to the Gulf of Finland. Additional cede demands were on the list. The Finnish Government made concessions, but Stalin announced that they were insufficient. Finland noticed Russian troop concentrations on the Karelian Isthmus. On November the 30th, the Soviet Union started its attack. The Finnish Winter War had begun.

The Papers

The Communist newspaper Norrskensflamman in Luleå had throughout the autumn of 1939 monitored the developments in the Finnish-Russian relations. When the Soviet Union attacked Finland the newspaper ended up in a dilemma. Its view was that Sweden would not enter the Finnish side in the war. They wanted neutrality to apply. This was also the Swedish government's stance. Among opponents to Norrskensflamman were the local competitor Norrbottnens-Kuriren, Luleå. The newspaper had a focus to the right of the political spectrum (is still today). It also served as housing means for the officers who served in the nearby garrison town, Boden. Many of these had the perception that Sweden would enter the Finnish side in the ongoing war. The slogan was: Finland's cause is ours. Major General Archibald Douglas was chief of staff to the forces in Norrbotten at that time. Approximately 100 000 soldiers were mobilized in Norrbotten.

The Officers

There was a strong desire among the Swedish officers to help their Finnish brothers in the struggle against the "satanic Communism". As the government repeatedly rejected the officers' proposals, there was no other way for them but to go to war voluntarily. Initiatives were to start the so-called voluntary agencies around the country. There would the recruitment to the Finnish front be organized. Patriotism was the guiding principle to the organization. The officers were angered to see that Norrskensflamman worked against the voluntary agencies' efforts. Norrskensflamman claimed that the activities were illegal. They stamped the volunteer organizers as warmongers. There was also a risk that Sweden would no longer be perceived as neutral if the business was continued. The officers felt that the journalists at Norrskensflamman appeared as traitors.

Voluntary Corps

The Swedish Volunteer Corps in Finland is estimated to have amounted to about 8000 men. The Swedish enthusiasm for the war was moderate. One important reason is deemed to be the Fascist tendencies that were present within the Finnish society in the 30's. The extreme Lappo-movement in Österbotten had received attention in the Swedish press because of its repeated acts of violence. Operating goal was to eradicate the Communism in Finland.

Most Swedes who joined the war were placed in the rear lines. Mostly their task was to maintain the troops who were in the front line. The Swedish losses during the war has been estimated to 33 men. Finland could count in about 23 000 killed and the Soviet Union about 130 000.

The Six-men Committee

In January-February 1940, a Six-men Committee was formed in Luleå. The stated aim was to fight the Communists. They had a special focus on Norrskensflamman in this ambition. Committee meetings were held at the so-called piano room at Stadshotellet, Luleå. The people who were members of the committee were:

Hedenström, journalist at Norrbottens-Kuriren, Luleå.

Ebbe Hallberg, Police Chief, Luleå. Member of the city's Masonic Lodge. Nazi.

Elof Rydberg, Principal railroad bookkeeper, Luleå.

Arvid Johansson, Norrbottens-Kuriren's local editor in Gällivare.

Ragnar Holmberg, Norrländska Socialdemokraten, local manager for the Luleå editorial.

Vilhem Lindgren, editor of Norrbottens-Kuriren (Hedenström's boss)

Outside the Committee were a number of important people. Colonel Svanbom at Ing 3, Boden, was a such. The Committee was led by Ebbe Hallberg. In the first place the discussions came to focus about which legal action could be taken to stop the publication of Norrskensflamman. Some examples:

Contact would be taken with the company that supplied newsprint to Norrskensflamman. They would be persuaded to stop the deliveries. This attempt failed. Norrskensflamman had a contract with the supplier. It was judged that a stop could lead to claims for damages from the paper.

A political prison camp had been built up at Storsien, Norrbotten. The idea was to imprison subversive elements (read: communists) that couldn't be drafted for military service, would be placed there. There were similar camps at other locations in Sweden. There was absolutely no legal basis for these camps. The Social Democrat Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson must be assigned a heavy responsibility for the advent of these concentration camps. Storsien had space for about 300 prisoners. The Committee pointed out which communists they wanted detained. Lists were handed over to Colonel Svanbom. One of the persons who was detained in this way was the ad manager at Norrskensflamman, Valdemar Granberg. There was hope to strangle the flow of advertising revenue to Norrskensflamman in this way. In the meanwhile advertisers were threatened to abandon advertising in Norrskensflamman. Granberg's wife, their 12-year-old son and 8-year-old daughter had their residence in the newspaper's property. They died in the blast on the 3rd of March, 1940. Granberg had been replaced by another person during his internment, therefore the Committee's action was ineffective. Sixten, who was considered for detention, has said that the detention camps had been erected on the German initiative. At the supposed German invasion it would then be a simple matter to the Nazis to "take care of" the leading Swedish Communists who sat in the camps.

According to Swedish law military could requisition the property of another, without compensating the owner, if the property could not be obtained otherwise. Another condition was that the property was essential to national defence. The Committee decided to submit a proposal on the requisition of Norrskensflamman. The idea was that the newspaper's print works would be used for the production of a front journal for the Swedish forces in Finland. Via General Douglas the proposal was forwarded to the government. There it was considered that a requisition of the print works was inappropriate. Moreover it had emerged that there was already a front newspaper in production. It was called "The Vanguard" and edited by Norrbottens-Kuriren.

The Winter War

In the beginning the Finnish troops had great success. They were inferior in both numerical and material but still managed to delay the advance of the Russian troops. They had wiped out entire Russian divisions. Thousands of Russian soldiers were killed in isolated clashes. Norrbotten-Kuriren's war correspondents were lyrical in its depiction of the Finnish heroism. The reason for the success was explained by the Finnish troops' training for winter warfare. It was known that the Finnish soldiers were simply superior to the Russian under such conditions. The winter of 1939-40 was one of the coldest ever been in Finland. Periodically the temperature was around -40 °.

When the war continued in February 1940, the Finnish success ended. The 11th and 12th of February the Russian troops broke through the defence lines at the Karelian Isthmus. General Mannerheim ordered a retreat. The situation was critical. The Finnish government appealed for help from Sweden, but as previously the Swedish government was cold-livered to an intervention. France and England didn't send troops but sent military equipment. Desperation began to spread among the Swedish officers. It was now known that it was only a matter of time before the Russian troops would stand at the Swedish border. The voluntary agencies' recruitment was inert. Norrskensflamman continued to undermine the war activists' activities. It was now thought that there were tendencies to war psychosis among some activists.

Attacks Plans

(Note: The statements in the yellow sections are based on interviews with the perpetrators. I comment the statements below under the heading "My Comments To The Above")

The Six-men Committee had exhausted its entire arsenal of possible legal action to stop Norrskensflamman. What now remained was illegal. The idea of blowing up Norrskensflamman's print work had existed for a long time. Hedenström was the one who was the driving force into this matter. He had previously been acquainted with a journalist who worked at Norrskensflamman. He had visited the premises at Kungsgatan 27 many times. He therefore had good local knowledge. Police Chief Hallberg had ordered a razzia at Norrskensflamman on February the 10th. The Police then spent a whole day at the premises. The apartments inhabited by Norrskensflamman's staff were also examined. In connection with this raid Hallberg managed to get hold to a key to the print work's room. Hedenström was now in possession of the key. It was now his task to organize the blow up of Norrskensflamman's print work.

The Winter War – The End

The Finnish Winter War came to an end. The Finnish collapse at the Karelian Isthmus meant that the war in practice was over. On the 29th of February, the Finnish government said yes to peace negotiations with the Soviet Union. The war was still extended one week because France and England had declared their willingness to assist Finland with troops. These were never sent because the Soviet Union made it clear that it didn't intend to occupy Finland. On March the 7th the Finnish delegation arrived to Moscow for negotiations.

The Perpetrators

Hedenström had organized the squad that would carry out the attack. The following persons would participate:

Hedenström.

Borgström, Second Lieutenant at Ing 3, Boden. Trained in blasting technology. Squad leader.

Krendel, Second Lieutenant at Ing 3, Boden. Trained in blasting technology.

Norström, Second Lieutenant at Ing 3, Boden. Trained in blasting technology.

Palmqvist, shop assistant in the civil but now conscript dispatch rider.

The Blow Up

(Note: The statements in the yellow sections are based on interviews with the perpetrators. I comment the statements below under the heading "My Comments To The Above")

The planning had been done in Colonel Svanbom's residence in Boden. It was decided that the blow up would take place the night of March the 3rd. Calculated time was at 3:00 am. The whole squad gathered at Colonel Svanbom's residence in the afternoon of March the 2nd for a final briefing. Then they went by car to Luleå. It entailed the necessary materiel for the blast. When they arrived to Luleå they went in to Stadshotellet. During the afternoon Hedenström had announced the time of the attack to Police Chief Hallberg. They danced, ate and drank well at the hotel. They resided there until about one o'clock at night. Then they drove to Norrbotten-Kuriren's premises. Standing at the newspaper's printing press it was decided how the workload should be shared between the squad members once they had entered Norrskensflamman's printing press. Bucking the trinitrotoluene rods, drawing of detonating cord, etc. were determined. Around 2:40 a.m. they drove to Norrskensflamman. They parked at a back street of Kungsgatan not far away from Norrskensflamman. Hedenström and Colonel Svanbom had earlier, on the night of February the 29th, visited Norrskensflamman. Svanbom waited outside while Hedenström went in to check that the key he received from the Police Chief fitted to the printer room's front door. When Hedenström now again found him selves at the door he unlocked. The Second Lieutenants immediately started bucking of the charges. Palmqvist, who was shapely, was placed at the entrance vestibule. They had provided him with a rubber mallet taken from Norrbotten-Kuriren's printing room. Other squad members were armed with pistols.

The bucking technique was:

The trinitrotoluene rods were placed on the rotary press in a way that maximum damage would occur. The rods were attached to detonators (= a small explosive device). Its task was to get the rods to detonate. The trinitrotoluene rods must detonate simultaneously. Failure to do so means a risk of a charge to damage another nearby. That charge will than never detonate. The problem was solved with the help of detonating cord. This cord is actually a small explosive charge. The whole length of the cord detonates instantaneously. The cords are connected to the detonators that are attached to the rods. The last step consists in connecting a gunpowder fuse to a detonator. This detonator is than attached to the detonation cord. When the detonator detonates against the detonation cord the entire charge will detonate instantaneously. At the attack the gunpowder fuse had a burning time of about 6 minutes. To be absolutely sure to get the detonation they had attached two separate detonators to the detonation cord, each one with a gunpowder fuse. One of these gunpowder fuse wires were found at Norrskensflamman's ruins by experts from the National Forensic Institute, Stockholm. The fuse wire was of a special German brand. After some time the investigators had found the merchant in Luleå who had sold the wire. It was discovered that the Second Lieutenant, Borgström, was the one who had requisitioned the fuse wire. The merchant had a copy of Borgström's requisition which amply revealed that it was he who had ordered and it was a gunpowder fuse wire (30 meters). Thus he was tied to the crime and others involved found it best to confess.

When the bucking work was completed they ignited the two gunpowder fuse wires. It was now about 3:10 a.m. The squad left the building. They started the journey to Boden without in any way await the detonation at distance. Police Chief Hallberg had instructed the squad to choose a detour back to Boden. That road made a turn to the south side of the Luleå River. The reason was that he felt obliged to order police checkpoints at certain positions immediately after the blast. However, he would not order any checkpoints south of the river.

The detonation occurred around 3:15 a.m.. The effect was terrible. It had been heard for kilometres away. People living in apartments near Norrskensflamman was awakened directly. Some witnesses have said that they stood at their windows within a couple of seconds. They could then see how Norrskensflamman was completely in flames. The witness Disa Rouna has said that she came out on the street within a couple of minutes to see what had happened. She then felt a distinct odour of gasoline. A proof for the strength of the pressure wave was the broken glass that was found about 20 meters from the building.

Ten people were in the building that night. It consisted of a basement, ground floor, first floor and at the top a attic. The rotary press was located in the basement. There the explosives had been placed. The blast had destroyed large parts of the floor between the ground floor and the basement. At the ground floor the newspaper's editorial office was located. No one dwelt there at the detonation. The five who lived at the first floor were killed almost instantly. The autopsy of their bodies revealed soot in their lungs. This indicated that they had died due to the fire itself - not the blast. This fact was of importance when the crime's penal aspects were discussed. The law was crystal clear regarding arson. If someone is killed due arson the one guilty shall be sentenced to life time. It was further noticed that the bodies had not been exposed to external violence.

The fatalities at the first floor were:

Arthur Hellberg, 37 years old, Party District Ombudsman, member of the Communist Central Committee and the newspaper's chief financial officer.

Alice Hellberg, 30 years old, wife of Arthur.

Svea Granberg, 34 years old, Youth District Cashier, worked temporary as a corrector at the newspaper. She lived there since her husband, Valdemar Granberg, was detained at Storsien. Otherwise they had an apartment in another location of Luleå.

The spouses Granberg's children:

Torgny Granberg, 12 years old.

May Hellberg, 8 years old.

In the attic were the five rescued:

Filip Forsberg, a journalist. He had joined from Stockholm to Norrskensflamman on February the 21th.

Vivan Åström and her two sons, Gustav 14 and Gunnar 17 years old.

T. Hell, bakery worker. He rented a room in the attic.

Model of Norrskensflamman's property developed by the Forensic Institution.

The basement: The black part at the bottom is the part that's located below the ground surface.

At the ground floor were the editorial offices. No one dwelt there by the explosion.

They at the first floor were the fatally injured.

They at the attic were rescued. At the top to the left end there is a tiny window. It became the rescue.

Norrskensflamman. Fully developed fire.

The photo has been shot about 5 minutes after the explosion. The photographer was a tenant in a property opposite to Norrskensflamman at Kungsgatan.

Rescue and death

They were awakened by the violent detonation. Paintings and mirrors fell down from the walls. Forsberg has stated that he heard a short scream from Alice Hellberg at the floor below. Then there was silence. They opened the door that led to the stairs down to the first floor. Fire and smoke struck up which made that way impassable. Then they rushed over to the north side where a fire ladder was mounted on the building's facade. Also this way was blocked. Fire struck up through the window openings at the floors below. It was absolutely impossible to climb down through this sea of fire. Then they rushed over to the southern end. There was a tiny window. It was placed in between the window openings that were in the floors below. Here was the chance for rescue. The fire was thrown vertically out from the two windows at the ground floor but the two flames approached each other all the time. The fire department had been alerted by residents about 3:17 a.m. It was now at place - with commendable quickness. A ladder was raised to rescue the distressed in the attic. The ladder caught fire quickly. This attempt had to be stopped. A new ladder was erected, but the elevator rope in it burned off. The chances for rescue from the outside was gone. Those trapped now tied together sheets that functioned as a lifeline. Hell, Åström and her sons managed to get out. When it was Forsberg's turn the two flames at the ground floor had merged. When he approached the flames a sheet caught fire and burned off. Forsberg tumbled the last meters but was unharmed. However, he got burns on his hands and face.

The investigation

The news of the blow up of Norrskensflamman struck like a bombshell in the political Sweden. The case was given the highest priority. Already on March the 3rd were experts from the National Forensic Institute, Stockholm, present at the crime scene. Prominent figure in the delegation was Mr. Harry Söderman.

Harry Söderman, SKA

The fire had not yet cooled down, which meant that no investigations were made on this day. The investigation began Monday the 4th of March. Very soon it was clear that high levels of magnesium was found in certain spots of the fire. Magnesium is present naturally in wood but not in the high level that was observed here. This indicated that the fire was arson. After some time they found the German-made gunpowder fuse wire (which I mentioned under the header "The Blow Up"). They also found a piece from a detonator.

During the trial at the District Court, Luleå, Söderman was a witness. His testimony gossiped that he had gotten instructions not to say more than necessary. He believed that at least two fire bombs had been deployed. He couldn't specify any closer regarding the bomb's construction but he thought

The trials

The trials began on April the 27th at the District Court, Luleå. As representative for Tryckeri AB Norrskenet appeared MP Hilding Hagberg (the Communist Party) and Filip Forsberg. Tryckeri AB Norrskenet was the owner of the now burned down property at Kungsgatan 27. The company was the plaintiff and made a claim for damages amounting to SEK 300 000.

To the perpetrators the legal situation was worrisome. If convicted of arson they could be sentenced to life time. The autopsy of the deceased had shown that the cause of death was the fire itself. The lawyers tactic was now trying to prove that the defendants did not intend to cause a fire. The fire was an accident. The aim was merely to destroy the rotary press. The lawyers claimed liability for damage to property of another. In that case they calculated approximately 2 years' imprisonment as a penalty and damages to Tryckeri AB Norrskenet for the destroyed rotary press. Damages for the burnt down building was out of the question because it wasn't proven that the defendants had caused the fire.

The court wanted to determine whether the trinitrotoluene rods that were attached to the rotary press could have caused the fire. Therefore it heard a number of experts. These found it unlikely that the trinitrotoluene rods had caused the fire. The experts from the Forensic Institution had determined that at least two fire bombs detonated in the building. Therefore it was the issue of arson. As the Second Lieutenants strenuously denied having placed the fire bombs nor was proven of actually having done so, the case came to a dead end. During the ongoing trial the defence suggested a theory about the deployed fire bombs. They argued that a parallel attack had been performed. Fire bombs would then have been deployed by the offender after the Second Lieutenants had ignited the gunpowder fuse and left the building. Estimated burning time of the gunpowder fuse, about 6 minutes, had been based on the findings made at the crime scene. The defence claimed it would have been quite possible for an offender who waited behind a corner of the building to deploy the fire bombs during the time that was available. It was also suggested that the Police Chief Hallberg could be a possible perpetrator. Hallberg was heard by the prosecutor regarding this allegation, but he denied categorically. Hagberg and Forsberg dismissed the theory of a parallel attack as unrealistic. The Court had decided on a forensic investigation of Hallberg, Hedenström and Svanbom. The study was undertaken at the psychiatric clinic, Långholmen, Stockholm. In early September, the doctor gave his statements. Svanbom and Hedenström were explained fully sane.

The 10th of October, the doctor gave his statement of Hallberg. He had shown signs of mental illness due to chronic poisoning, "Korsakoff's disease" (alcoholic dementia). The illness had made him insane during 1939 - 40. The Court decided to request the opinion of the Medical Forensic Psychiatry Board. On January the 10th, 1941, the Medical Board made its statement. It had found that Hallberg was deprived the use of understanding, as envisaged in the Criminal Code. He was in need of care in mental hospital. Hallberg was also indicted for embezzlement and accounting fraud. Some of these crimes would have been committed already in 1928. Hallberg's attorney sought to have him declared insane from 1928. This failed.

On June the 21st, 1940, the verdicts of Borgström, Norström, Krendel and Palmqvist were presented:

Borgström, 2 years' hard labour

Norström, 1 year and 11 months' hard labour.

Krendel, 1 year and 10 months' hard labour.

Palmqvist, 1 year and 10 months' hard labour.

Grounds: participation in damage to another's property.

The Second Lieutenants lost their military ranks and were removed from their positions.

On September the 20th, 1940, the verdicts of Hedenström and Svanbom were presented:

Svanbom, 2 years' hard labour. He was declared deposed from his position as Colonel.

Hedenström, 2 years' hard labour.

On February the 3rd, 1941, the verdict of Hallberg was presented:

He was convicted of embezzlement and accounting fraud to 1 year and 6 months of hard labour. He was also declared deposed from his position as Police Chief.

The Court found that Hallberg was involved in the attack at Norrskensflamman. He was charged of complicity in damage to another's property. No penalties could be imposed because he was declared insane for the years 1939-1940.

Additional two people had been indicted:

Gösta Magnus Lundqvist, employed at the National Information Board.

He had worked together with Hedenström at the Voluntary Agency. The prosecutor considered that there was evidence that Lundqvist knew about the attack plans. Failure to inform the police about the plans was as a crime.

He was acquitted by the Court.

Vilhelm Lindgren, editor of Norrbottnens-Kuriren, member of the Six-men Committee. Also Lindgren was accused of having failed to inform the police about the attack plans. He was acquitted by the Court.

Norrskensflamman raged over the mild verdicts. It appealed to Svea Hovrätt in Umeå.

Negotiations in Svea Hovrätt was chaired by President Elliot. He announced that he had found a section of the law that allowed for significantly higher penalties for damage to another's property, compared to that applied in the District Court.

As in the District Court the theory of a parallel attack was discussed. Norrskensflamman's representatives also this time dismissed the theory as unrealistic. Nothing new of significant value was added during the negotiations. The perpetrators had been condemned by a unanimous Swedish press corps after the verdicts in the District Court. The Communist newspapers believed that the mild verdicts were nothing else but a legal scandal. The perpetrators had gotten impunity for murder! The damages awarded to Norrskensflamman was only symbolic, about SEK 17 000. Some liberal newspapers were critical of the mild verdicts, including Göteborgs Handels- och Sjöfartstidning. The newspaper was headed by the chief editor and professor, Torgny Segerstedt.

Pressure from public opinion on the Court was hard before the verdicts. All who somehow thought that they could affect the outcome of the case let their voices be heard. Elliot had already at the beginning of the trial indicated that there would be harder a sentence - and indeed it was.

Svea Hovrätt's judgement the 17th of May , 1941:

Hedenström, 7 years' hard labour.

Svanbom, 7 years' hard labour, deposed from his position as Colonel.

Borgström, 6 years' hard labour, deposed from his position as Second Lieutenant.

Norström, 6 years' hard labour, deposed from his position as Second Lieutenant.

Krendel, 6 years' hard labour, deposed from his position as Second Lieutenant.

Palmqvist, 2 years' hard labour.

Hallberg had died on March the 6th, 1941. Because of claims for damages his estate was guarded at the trial.

Norrskensflamman appealed to the Supreme Court. On the 24th of October, 1941, the Court upheld Svea Hovrätt's judgement. The court case was complete.

The convicted applied for pardon in 1943. The then deposed Colonel, Svanbom, wrote in his application:

"All were burning with excitement at all costs to meet our prospective, historical enemy, even when he sought within the country's borders to undermine national defence through illegal propaganda."

The convicted were pardoned in instalments. The last one was pardoned after the war ended in 1945.

My Comments To The Above:

Oldberg's book comprises 280 pages. It's probably unknown to most people living in Sweden today. Sixten has surely read the book when it was published in 1972. Personally, I have been totally unaware of the crime's dark secrets - until now (2014). Sixten has mentioned the attack on a few occasions. It hasn't than been the issue of any teaching from his side. He described briefly the facts which were known to most politically initiated at Arjeplog. That he was forced to live with the truth about the crime for most of his life was nothing noticeable outwards. I realize now that no one who has taken part of the truth about the crime could fail to be influenced. Just like many other Communists in Norrbotten it strengthened him in his opposition regarding Fascism and Nazism. The attack had the opposite effect than the conspirators at the highest level had anticipated. Many people at Arjeplog made over the years persistent attempts to get Sixten to break with the Communism. Persuasion, enticements, threats and harassments. Nothing helped. My opinion is that he remained as a Communist throughout his life. The main reason was of course the blow up of Norrskensflamman.

Sixten always took a stand against the political violence - regardless of the "ism's" that were affected. The Stalin Terror became infamous within the leading communists in Sweden during the 60's. Sixten was then one of the first in Norrbotten to distance himself from the Moscow-loyal. These were led by the MP and the former editor in chief of Norrskensflamman, Hilding Hagberg. Sixten found the situation untenable and therefore terminated his subscription of Norrskensflamman.

Throughout his life Sixten was under surveillance from the Fascist vassals at Arjeplog. When he, my mother, my sister and I celebrated Christmas, in 1965, at Majorca (Spain), he suffered a serious assassination attempt. In connection with a meal at our hotel he was poisoned. Thanks to a resourceful intervention by a Spanish doctor he survived.

Sixten was a Communist. This is not disputed. But he was at first and foremost a human being. Unfortunately, I can't say the same about the people behind the attack on Norrskensflamman.

When I read the book I found details showing that the Nazis who now have persecuted me for more than 60 years, had the intention to show that they had full control of me. As an example I can mention my military service at I 19, Boden, 1966-1967. I was placed at an engineering unit. There I learned a lot about blasting technique. I have benefited greatly from this knowledge when I studied through Oldberg's book. Thanks!

In his youth Sixten could occasionally write small posts that were published in Norrskensflamman. He then wrote under a pseudonym. The inserts were fierce and directed its sting against Nazism and Fascism. He knew Filip Forsberg who also had served as the chairman of the Swedish Communist Youth League. In spring 1949, Sixten sought entry into an association at Arjeplog. Its purpose was military training (officer training) of people who were interested in voluntary defence of the country. He was denied entry because of his membership of the Communist Party. Sixten contacted Norrskensflamman who wrote a story of the matter. It was published on the 29th of March 1949. Sixten featured at the front page. On the following link you can download the article (all in Swedish):

I have researched further about the perpetrators' fate after their release. All of them came to be employed by the Swedish Defence Headquarters, Stockholm. Borgström worked in its premises at Östermalm. He lived in an apartment not far away from the premises. He had an interest in horse back riding and used to practice at the Defence's stables not far away from his apartment. When I checked in the official Swedish Death Registry, I found that Borgström had died on 29th of March 1949. He had practised horse back riding that day. He happened then to fall down from the horseback. He suffered extensive head injuries. These injuries caused his death. Nothing has been published about this event in the Swedish newspapers.

I have been subjected to numerous attempted murders over the years. The attempts have been designed in a way that my eventual death would look like an accident. On two occasions, the attempts have been made in connection with horse back riding. The first one occurred on Christmas Day in 1971. I managed to survive these attacks thanks to my good balance.

Forsberg had worked as a journalist for Norrskensflamman already during the 20's. In the 30's he got involved in the fight against the Spanish Fascism. He became a well known agitator and writer. In 1932 he was sentenced to two and a half years imprisonment for incitement. Of course, he was a thorn in the side of the Swedish Fascists already then. He moved to Norrskensflamman only a few weeks before the attack. This raises the suspicion that "someone" wanted him to be at Kungsgatan 27, Luleå, on the 3rd of March 1940.

The Six-men Committee who worked to stop the publishing of Norrskensflamman was nothing else but the conspirators' extended arm. The criminal investigation shows that these are to be found within the decorated societies obscure meeting rooms. Their premises will tend toward a putrid whiff of Fascism. This is where it's decided who should live and who should die. They hadn't been able to stop the publishing of Norrskensflamman. The Winter War had been lost. Now they demanded revenge as to the simple principles of the Vendetta. The blow up of Norrskensflamman's rotary press was only fictitious (cf. False Flag, tab New World Order). When Borgström was shepherded at the crime scene he was shown the sooty rotary press. He was asked to point to the places where the trinitrotoluene rods had been attached. He failed in this task. There were simply no places to point to because the rotary press had never been charged. The time inside Norrskensflamman's premises was spent for completely other things. At least four fire bombs were charged at the ground floor. These had been stolen from a military storage. Seven trinitrotoluene rods had been deployed. Then they finished the job by soaking the ground floor's floor in gasoline. At least 15 litres is estimated to have been used. Heavy fire at the ground floor would definitely block the exits to the residents in the floors above. Since the objective of the attack was the residents at the two top floors there was no reason to charge anything in the basement. When the fire department arrived they could see that there was no fire in the basement. With these measures taken the Second Lieutenants had ensured the powerful explosive impact. The building would flare up momentarily. Those who were in the building would be matchless and killed in the fire. The main target among the ten was Filip Forsberg.

The assertion that Police Chief Hallberg would have come across a key to the basement (where the rotary press was) has no credibility. The key that was needed was the one that took to the ground floor's entrance and thus access to the office and editorial premises. The statement that Hedenström was the one who had local knowledge lacks confidence. My hypothesis is that Valdemar Granberg was the key person in the drama. He was detained at Storsien and therefore he was an easy prey to the conspirators. Granberg was said to have suffered from depression and alcoholism the time after the attack. Finally, he committed suicide in 1960.

The management of Norrskensflamman was of course aware of the existing risks. Numerous threats had been forwarded. It had witnessed the German Nazi rampage. In 1933 they had put fire to the Reichstag building in Berlin. The first step in the German democratic dismantling had been taken. It's likely that the management believed that the residents of the property would be a safeguard against a possible attack, but in their imagination wasn't the insanity that the perpetrators had demonstrated. The conspirators knew that the blow up of the rotary press only would be a meaningless prank. Norrskensflamman could be printed in other places in Sweden. The newspaper Ny Dag in Stockholm was such a place. The purpose of the attack was to kill the newspaper's staff. Machines can always be substituted but it is much more difficult to acquire new staff. The political motive is obvious. That there were four children in the building was insignificant to the conspirators. As to the fascist's twisted views the Communist offspring are allowed targets just as all other Communists. The age of the offspring is irrelevant in this context because even the smallest child represents a future potential threat. The presumption is that the Communist's children automatically would become communists. Was May Hellberg, 8 years old, a Communist? Under a Fascism approach the answer is unconditionally 'yes'. The bucking of the rotary press, the "General-rehearsal" at Norrbottens-Kuriren etc. was only smoke screens to facilitate the mild judgements. These constructions were created by the conspirators in full agreement with the prosecutor and judges who would figure in the legal aftermath. The trials were political fake trials. Overall, we are talking about one of the biggest legal scandals in the history of Sweden.

The deed was a Fascist demonstration of power. An important feature of the Fascist's exercise of power is to scare their opponents into submission. The blow up of Norrskensflamman was thus a warning to other Communist newspapers in Sweden. The followers of Fascism are trying even up to this day to cover up the truth in this legal case. It's almost a generation ago the attack occurred, but it still remains as an open wound in the Swedish society. When the criminals were revealed, it was a huge loss of prestige to the Swedish Police and the military. Many people who had nothing to do with the crime got their lives ruined. As me concern I've had reason to occasionally think about the ideologies that have the violence as its fundamental idea. What kind of people are attracted to these ideologies? What are the motives? If we look back historically at the ideologies that have caused mankind's biggest-ever humanitarian disasters, Nazism and Fascism, it should deter even the most violent individuals.

The people who end up in the grasp of Nazism or Fascism could be brainwashed (mind controlled) to be vassals without willpower of their own. They can then be commanded to the most heinous acts. I don't suggest that the three Second Lieutenants were brainwashed, mentally retarded, etc. They were not even the subject of forensic investigation, but they had passed all the mental barriers that usually prevent a man from committing a crime containing violence. It was war. As a military one must obey orders. The Second Lieutenants were under command of Colonel Svanbom. Whatever they thought of the moral, etc. in the deed it was of secondary importance. In such a situation you put the responsibility for your action on the one who's superior. Then it immediately becomes easier to do what you are commanded to do. Anyone realize that the "operation" wasn't a figment by Colonel Svanbom. In the strict military hierarchy he was only an officer, although a Colonel, a cog on a low level. In Oldberg's book General Archibald Douglas is exposed as the first "word" mentioned in the book. It usually means that the person is important to the book's context. Douglas was forced to submit to regular police interrogation but nothing could be proved. It's also unrealistic to think that a General would be prosecuted in the military-strategic situation prevailing in April 1940. In compliance to the authoritarianism and the strict hierarchy that applies within the Nazism and Fascism it was only Colonel Svanbom and the Second Lieutenants who could be considered to take a sentence for the military part of the "operation".

The imagination of the Communists as naive helpless idiots is a myth. They knew that the fight against Fascism and Nazism was a fight to the death. Like their opponents, they were organized in secret networks. As an example I can mention how they managed to infiltrate the Police in Luleå. The following is stated on page 14 in Forsberg's tiny writing Fem döda – Luleådådet i processprotokollens belysning (more about this at the end of this chapter):

About the role Lindgren had at Hedenström's side speaks Constable Erik Petter Westerlund's testimony. The witness told among others: Already in the autumn of 1939 Westerlund noticed that the journalist Hedenström and editor Lindgren often visited Hallberg at his office. The visits used to last about one hour. The door between the Police Chief's room and the room where W. was had always been closed and the people in the Police Chief's room had spoken in a low voice. After the beginning of 1940 ..... Hedenström had also quite often come in the company of the editor Lindgren. W. had never seen Hedenström visit Hallberg with anyone else than Lindgren. It may be allowed to concluded from this testimony, who in fact was the man behind the Police Chief's Six-men Committee.

Hitler and Mussolini were on march in Europe. Denmark and Norway were occupied in April 1940. The conspirators calculated a Nazi takeover in Sweden in the near future. It would basically be safe to both the conspirators and the assassins to carry out the attack. As the world evolved, it became politically impossible to sentence the three Second Lieutenants to the punishment they deserved i.e. imprison for life time . Also leading Social Democrats had reasons to be careful in this legal case. If they had contributed to life time sentences the consequences could become severe when the supposed new rulers had taken over.

The tragic figure Ebbe Hallberg is worth to be mentioned in particular. Like many other police chiefs in Sweden at that time he was part of a Nazi network. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Luleå. His lawyer during the trials was a openly active Nazi. Once he had been prosecuted, he was no longer useful to the conspirators. He was rather a burden and at the same time a very dangerous one. He was a severe alcoholic and unstable. That he had been revealed as a criminal was a terrible affront to the Nazis in Luleå. To protect the conspirators he was instructed to deny everything during the trials. The forensic psychiatric investigation was a way to defuse this wandering bomb. As expected, the doctor found that Hallberg was mentally ill during the years 1939-40. Therefore, he could not be sentenced to prison for his involvement in the attack. The information that he also suffered from cancer was announced (cf. Jack Ruby, the assassination of JFK). On March the 6th, 1941, Hallberg died at Långholmen's infirmary. The Police Chief was no longer a problem.

I want to give the publishing house Bonnier's a praise. They have had the courage to publish the book. It reveals in a stark way the Nazi and Fascist forces behind the brutal murders. When I make the comparison to the Palme murder there emerges a pattern that's essentially identical to the attack on Norrskensflamman. It's the same corrupt police and military that features - but then 46 years later. Corrupt judges and prosecutors give their contributions in the trials. Attempts to cover up the enormity of the case occurs. Oldberg's book is today as relevant as when it was published in 1972. It's a document that is too important to be buried in silence.

The book can be borrowed within the Labour Movement Archives: www.arbark.se

An important complement to Oldberg's book is Filip Forsberg's tiny (A5) writing " Fem döda – Luleådådet i processprotokollens belysning ". Also this document can be borrowed within the Labour Movement Archives.

Shortly after the perpetrators had been revealed he wrote about his perceptions regarding the attack. Forsberg had realized that he was the perpetrator's main target - even if he doesn't express it in his writing. Since he had become a dangerous witness, it was likely that the conspirators would try to eliminate him again. The publication became a way to in any case publish the truth about the attack. Forsberg doesn't mince his words. It was arson. Nothing else. The document is harrowing reading because it reveals the brutal and the insanity in the attack. Here is also the truth and the key to the murder riddle. I want to thank Forsberg posthumously. His contribution has been of great importance in the fight against the Fascism.

Filip Forsbergs inlägga till rätten.

Redaktör Filip Forsberg inlämnade till rätten en promemoria av följande lydelse:

Undertecknad ber att till rättens protokoll få anteckna följande:

Jag anser icke den av åklagaren framförda uppfattningen om sättet för eldens uppkomst och spridning vara hållbar. Då denna uppfattning borttager det för straffmätningen betydelsefulla uppsåtet vill jag här ange några av de fakta på vilka min uppfattning stöder sig.

1. Mina egna och övriga räddades iakttagelser.

Enligt rekonstruktion av det jag förelag sedan jag väcktes av smällen och tills jag konstaterat att trapphuset var i det närmaste fyllt av tjock svart rök, norra gaveln övertänd och stora eldstångar slående ut från södra gavelns fönster i bottenvåningen visar, att inte en hel minut förflutit. Ett av mina intryck omedelbart var, att elden var så anlagd, att ingen i huset varande skulle kunna levande undkomma.

Erik I. A. Hell hade den uppfattningen, att detonationen inträffat först, efter det elden utbrutit. Då Hell omedelbart efter det han vaknat sett ut genom köksfönstret, hade nämligen nära norra väggen varit övertänd.

Filip Forsberg.

Ellen Olivia Aström hade nästan omedelbart efter smällen "genom takfönstret i hallen sett eldsken" och hade därefter öppnat dörren till förstugan, men funnit trappan fylld av rök. Då de sett ut genom fönstret (på norra gaveln) hade de funnit att eldslägor redan slickat efter denna vägg ända upp till köksfönstret. I detta rum (södra rummet) hade då funnits rök, så att det börjat svida i fru Aströms ögon.

The Death Of Filip Forsberg.

The 28th of October, 1944, Norrskensflamman writes:

"Forsberg became ill three weeks ago and was admitted to hospital. Shortly thereafter he had a surgery because of gallstones. Everything went well and the time of his departure was already established when the fever suddenly rose slightly. He felt healthy, and as late as noon yesterday his wife was with him and he was then in his best vigour and expected to return soon at home. At four o'clock that afternoon he died of a blood clot. He became 39 years old. "

4. Holiday Trip In Eastern Europe, 1973.

In one of many political discussions with my father, in the early 70's , I suggested that we would make a holiday trip in the Eastern Europe . I wanted a depiction of the conditions behind the "Iron Curtain" . Sixten immediately dismissed my proposal. He argued that it would be impossible for him to get a visa because he was at that time supporter of the West European variant of Communism. In July 1973 , I saw a new opportunity to realize a trip . I suggested my then girlfriend that we would make a journey through East Germany , Czechoslovakia and Poland. Said and done . We visited cities like East Berlin , Prague and Stettin . When we went into East Berlin we were stopped by machine gun armed

Police officers at the city limits. After having examined our passports and visas , it was immediately clear to us that we were not welcome. One of the officers , female one, was considering a body search of my girlfriend. After she had consulted her superiors we could escape this humiliation. We left East Germany as fast as we could. The receptions in Czechoslovakia and Poland were nicer . We were able to move freely and noted that the people we met were only sympathetic when we mentioned our nationality .

After returning home I "reported" my findings to Sixten . I mentioned the inhumane impression I got from East Germany, poverty (1800 's of level ) on the Polish countryside , but that one could still discern traces from the "Prague Spring" in Czechoslovakia. The journey was in a way an acknowledgement of something I already knew - namely that the Communism is ineffective and inhumane .

At this time I had completed a university degree that included 60p Corporate Finance. For a long time I had realized the hopelessness of the planned economy - i.e. one of the cornerstones of the Communist ideology .

5. The Brothel Tangle , 1976 ( The Geijer Affair)

Literature: "The power , the men , the cover-up . Story of a brothel scandal in 1976. "

Author: Deanne Rauscher & Janne Mattson , 2004.

Probably one of the most controversial documents ever published in Sweden .

Like many others , I took part of media's reporting about The Brothel Tangle (The Geijer Affair) in the 70s . What I then thought was most remarkable in this story was the suspect Mr. Lennart Geijer. Could the country's Minister of Justice be a buyer of sexual services ? Once the Social Democrat's denial machine came up to speed I was convinced that the whole story was a fake .When Rauscher / Mattsson published their book in 2004, I read some reviews - which were essentially negative . Nothing new beneath the sun.

The Brothel Tangle is a display of humiliation . The exploitation of the then 14 - year-old girl Miss Eva Bengtsson is hard to understand to a normal sensed individual. Miss Bengtsson was placed in a special lodging for young girls (Stockholm) who suffered various problems e.g. drug abuse. Nevertheless she was able to engage in prostitution for a long time. She was paid in drugs for her service. The head of the brothel , Miss Doris Hopp, had already in this way qualified for a long prison sentence . That her sentence still was mild must be considered as a legal scandal .

It's beneficial to Rauscher / Mattsson that they featured the naked truth in the way they did. One can always hope that the book had a dampening effect on the worst excesses of prostitution. That prostitution to this day is at a high level in Stockholm most observers seem to agree on.

In the book's epilogue the authors allow a number of key persons to express themselves . I choose to reproduce Säpo's Chief Operating Officer Mr. Olof Frånstedt :

" It is sad that some people have gotten the idea that they are above the laws and standards that apply to the common man . When they unchecked manage to cross certain barriers they may get the idea that they are untouchable at the heights they are. That they can say and do things that they feel at the spur of the moment . That they, in their complacency feel that they are too smart to be discovered. We know from experience that they can be both ministers - even prime ministers - and judges , prosecutors, Police Officers , Ombudsmen of Justice , Generals . In one way or another one risks sooner or later to lose one's foothold and fall flat to the ground. But then it's usually too late to come to understanding and act upon one's original sense of responsibility and good character. "

( Mr. Frånstedt has in 2013 published the book Spy Hunter - among agents , terrorists and affairs) ) .

At the time when the Brothel Tangle was discovered purchase of sexual services wasn't a crime in Sweden (nowadays it is). Pretty soon, investigators discovered that Doris Hopp had a number of very young girls in her "stalls " . Some were only 14 or 15 years old. Sexual exploitation of such a young person falls under the legal scope " fornication with children "- which was and still is a serious crime (may sentence to 4 years in prison ) . It's this crime Mr. Frånstedt refers to in his statement above.

The young criminologist Mr. Leif GW Persson worked for the National Police Board ( NPB) in 1976. He had made himself a name within the organization by introducing new thinking and new work methods . In Rauscher / Mattson's book there is a picture where he is sitting together with the Chief of the NPB, Mr. Carl Persson. "GW" became aware of the Brothel Tangle and that Mr. Lennart Geijer was suspected for the purchase of sexual services. Carl Persson felt obliged to inform Prime Minister Olof Palme about the suspicions against Geijer and a number of other persons. The formal allegations against the individuals concerned were based on concerns about national security. Säpo had good insight in the reconnaissances against Doris Hopp's brothel and therefore a good mode of proof. Of course, they were forced to respond because it was discovered that Eastern States diplomats used the same brothel. The risk that customers , like Geijer, could be blackmailed was obvious. Moreover, "The Spy Colonel " Mr. Stig Wennerström ,from the 60s (he spied on behalf of the Soviet Union), was in recent memory. Carl Persson wrote a memorandum that identified the suspected brothel customers. It was handed to Palme - who in turn chose to lock the memorandum into a safe.

After the Social Democrat election defeat , the fall of 1976 , Palme handed the memorandum to the new Prime Minister – Mr. Torbjörn Fälldin . In November 1977, the story reached the digging Dagens Nyheter (DN) journalist Mr. Peter Bratt. He had presented what he knew of the Geijer case to the editorial board . Would you or would you not publish the allegations regarding Geijer ? Bratt knew that rival colleague , Expressen (major newspaper) , also was news on track . It was only a matter of time before the news would erupt . Bratt definitely wanted to be the first one with this scoop. He is now looking for the definitive confirmation that the "Geijer Affair " takes its accuracy . He lifts the handset and dials Leif GW Persson. He asks if "GW" can confirm the story . "GW" answers " yes." Then DN's printing presses started roll. DN's front page notes that Geijer is a security risk. The unlikely happens now. Palme and Geijer denies Bratt's story. DN is forced to publish an apology . Geijer sues DN for libel. He wins the case and was awarded damages of 50 000 SEK ( 7 300 U.S. dollars). Bratt reveals his source , Leif GW Persson, which forces "GW" to terminate his employment with the NPB . Bratt, in his capacity of a journalist, was "put on hold" for a long time . Expressen later managed , through legal procedures , to get access to the (by now) well known memorandum. It appeared that Geijer's name was included . Not only that . The new prime minister , Torbjörn Fälldin , was also included . At a press conference Fälldin was forced to deny . The fact that his own name was included in the memorandum he considered to be proof enough that everything was a lie. The denials presented by Palme, Geijer and Fälldin should therefore be weighed against Olof Frånstedt's statement (above). I think Frånstedt's statement is credible because of the simple reason that he had nothing to gain by delivering a lie concerning the mentioned ministers .

After completing the NPB "GW" grabbed the opportunity to change his career . Authorship attracted. His debut novel Grisfesten (The Pigs Feast) , in 1978, became a bestseller. I have read the book and is prepared to salute this work . Entertainment is guaranteed.

Starting point of the book is a robbery occurring May 13, 1977 at the Post Office 6 , Dalagatan 13 , Stockholm ( oddly enough , I knew a person who worked at the Post Office 6 at the time) . The Police reconnaissance leads , unexpectedly, to the Säpo staff member Kjell Göran Hedberg ( fictitious character ) . The investigators found that Mr. Hedberg worked as a bodyguard for the minister Honest Harry at the time of the robbery. Honest Harry had ordered Hedberg to give him a ride to a prostitute who had her business at an address only a few of blocks away from Post Office 6. The investigators theorized that Mr. Hedberg performed the robbery while the Minister was fulfilling his duties with the prostitute . When the Minister later was confronted regarding the suspicions against Mr. Hedberg he gave him alibi for the whole working day. According to the rules the bodyguard would be at arm's length from the Minister throughout the shift . The Minister affirmed that this had been the case.

It requires no great imagination of the reader to understand that the novel figure Honest Harry is Lennart Geijer . The Pigs Feast becomes GW's gruesome revenge on Geijer after the injustice he had suffered in connection with parting from the NPB . When "GW" had published The Pigs Feast he had established himself as a combatant in the political Vendetta .

Vendetta

Vendetta ( of lat . Vindicta , " Revenge" ) , a Corsican term for blood vengeance . Formerly common throughout Italy and the Balkans, and is still present today in Corsica , Sicily , Calabria , Serbia and Albania. (Source Wikipedia)

When people feel they have been wronged they seek rehabilitation . If the violation includes criminal elements , it is common to seek rehabilitation through our legal system. It may then happen that the person seeking rehabilitation would be wronged by the system. Most often , he / she then has been dismissed by the system as liar , mentally ill , etc. . It can also happen that people are prosecuted and convicted on false premises ( miscarriage of justice ) . Those wronged in this way have usually no chance when seeking rehabilitation in our legal system. When the system has collapsed the person wronged , in some cases , will consider the Vendetta as a last resort to rehabilitation. I want this to be clear: The Vendetta has no place in a civilized society. When people seek this medieval form of justice they then deviate from all democratic principles . They decline everything that has to do with human rights. In short : they let the idiocy replace common sense. Vendetta in Sweden appears mainly in political terms. The method is then that the combatants manipulate representatives of the legal system to achieve their purposes. I define this as a political Vendetta .

6. Chicago 1976-1977

When I in spring of 1976 told Sixten that I was offered a job at the Swedish Trade Commissioner in Chicago, he became very concerned. He tried to get me to abandon this mission. He felt that it was an excessive risk-taking to work in Chicago. The city was known as gangster town no. 1 in the U.S.! I dismissed this as nonsense because I had completely different information . I had got hold of the number and name of a person who recently worked at the Swedish Trade in Chicago. I did an in-depth interview of the person over the phone. The reassuring answer I got regarding security meant that I didn't experience any problems in accepting the job. I informed Sixten about this and then heard no further arguments. I have recapitulated this event . It has been documented that the CIA has been very active in Sweden in the 70's . The reason was of course the Vietnam War. They wanted full control of all left-wing opponents. Sixten , who usually was well informed , didn't want (of course) to say that he was registered with the CIA - but that was the real reason why he wanted me to refrain Chicago.

During my stay , I lived in a condominium at 65 East Scott Street . The area was classified as safe. As usual in such buildings there was always a doorman in place around the clock. The building manager was a parant lady in her 40's . When I met her the first time for checking the apartment it was immediately clear to me that strong credentials were required to rent in this building. I left my credentials and after about a week everything was cleared . As early as day 1 , I received clear information about which regulations were in force . If one couldn't obey it there was only one way to go, i.e. OUT . I had a good relationship to the doormen who worked there . The manager I didn't see that often but now and then we met at the entrance. Mostly she wanted to get a confirmation that I enjoyed with my accommodation . Everything worked fine and I had nothing to complain about. One night in April -77 I awoke to the smell of smoke inside the apartment. When I looked closer , I saw heavy smoke emission from a smaller building located about 50 yards from my apartment (photo below). My air cond sucked smoke into the apartment. I turned off the conditioner and could see that the fire department was already in place. I had previously noted that the building seemed discarded and uninhabited. I didn't think closer about this event because fires were commonplace in this city.

About two weeks later , I woke up one night as the fire alarm was triggered in my building . I went down to the entrance to check with our doorman . He immediately gave the message that it concerned a false alarm . There was nothing to worry about so it was just to go to sleep again . In the morning when I took the stairs down , I happened to see that a wall was damaged by fire a few stories below my apartment. The damage wasn't big, no more than 12 sq. in. I reported this to our doorman immediately. To my surprise , I received no feedback from the manager on this notification. Suddenly it seemed like I was " persona non grata " in the building. None of our doormen greeted me anymore. The manager showed off her most acidic mine. When I was preparing to move back to Stockholm , I had parked my car at a loading dock at the building's backyard. I knew that there was no parking at this location . Since I had a considerable amount of boxes that I would take up to the apartment I chose to park anyway. When I came down to the loading dock again, after about 20 minutes, the car was gone. I contacted the manager immediately. She confirmed that she had ordered off towing.

As early as the first week in Chicago , I was told a lot of stories from my colleagues about employees who got into trouble on other Swedish Trade offices around the United States. This was obviously meant as the classic warning "watch your back" . I still felt safe in existence right from the start . At Scott Street I avoided consistently to familiarize myself with others tenants . I noticed that others behaved in much the same way. In spring -77 , probably sometime in March , I heard someone knocking on my door late afternoon. When I opened two girls were standing there. I estimated they were about 25 years old. They said they lived in an apartment a little further away on the floor. They seemed excited - but certainly sober . They had brought a cup and said they wanted to borrow sugar. I gave OK for this and filled the cup while they were waiting at the door. They thanked , but before they left I got their apartment number and they said I could knock on " if there was anything I wanted ". Afterwards , I thought it was odd that they knocked on at just my door as I've never seen the girls before. After this event I never saw them again . I returned to Stockholm in June -77 .

In the summer of 1978 I received a letter from my colleague and successor at the Swedish Trade - LH ( MBA ) . I had helped LH to get started in Chicago. I helped when he sought for an apartment . His choice fell on a high rise building at 2 East Oak Street , about 40 stories high .

2 East Oak St. Chicago. Photo: Google.

By joining forces, we checked that we were dealing with a "safe area" . LH got an apartment almost exactly in the middle of the building. He announced now that the building suffered a major fire . He argued that it was only luck that no one died in the fire. Police indicated suspected arson . Many tenants, including LH , were forced to move because of extensive smoke damages in the building. LH was shaken but chose to remain in Chicago. Obviously , I felt discomfort over this incident but I made no direct connection to the events at Scott Street . When LH returned to Stockholm I met him in a brief meeting . He was still upset about the fire but grateful to have survived. He gave me a feeling of reproach . I had some sympathy for this position as I had helped him in his choice of the apartment . However , I reminded LH of that we had thoroughly checked the safety. After this meeting our ways parted.

Throughout my stay I never had any feeling of being monitored. Sure , I noticed that our doormen carefully noted those people that came with me to the apartment. I regarded this as a natural part of their job and let not be disturbed. At work I was occasionally called by various telephone companies who offered me to test their service for free for a short period. As I knew there was a risk of eavesdropping I always turned these offers down . Basically we worked as a Swedish mission which meant the operator hired was approved by the Consulate.

My research has given me strong evidence that the CIA carefully planned my recruitment to Chicago. In the interests of a third party I refrain from revealing the circumstances . My understanding is that the CIA planned to assassinate Mr. Palme already in the 70's . That the assassination was delayed until 1986 can partly be explained by the political development in Sweden during the period 1976-1986 .

7. Johnson Matthey

During the period 1980 - 1990 I worked with sales / marketing for the English noble metals group Johnson Matthey (JM) . Our office was located at Understandingly, Stockholm . About in 1983 I discovered by chance that a former employee had made serious administrative errors in the handling of platinum metals. My boss , DM , gave me the assignment to conduct an investigation. That showed that most of the errors could be attributed to one customer. Once the investigation was complete, we were able to recover metals at a value corresponding to 2.5 million SEK. (360 000 U.S. dollars). I want to emphasize that there was no dishonesty in this " story " . It was just incompetence that caused the errors.

In 1985 it was revealed that one of our employees , UV, had stolen precious metals worth the equivalent of 20 million SEK ( 2,9 million. U.S. dollars). UV confessed and was sentenced to six years in prison. Most of the stolen value he had gambled away on horse betting . When he had served about 2 years in prison , I learned that he had died in a single vehicle accident with his car . He had been on leave from the prison and in connection therewith spent an evening at the race horse arena in Stockholm! The accident took place late at night. No witnesses were present.

When I recapitulate the circumstances in the months before UV was arrested , I have reason to believe that someone was trying to frame me for the ongoing crime. Our management knew that metals were missing, before UV was arrested , but did not know what was behind .

The CIA is behind this attempt to frame me . They had already stamped me as a Communist (since I visited the eastern states ) which meant that I fitted well in with the Palme murder political scenario - as the CIA wanted it to be perceived . They could also point to the suspicious fires in Chicago. By discredit me for the theft of precious metals they then could complete the picture of me as a hardened criminal . Now I was the perfect "pacey" in the Palme assassination.

I never knew UV closer during my time at JM . Nothing in the subsequent investigation indicated that he had an accomplice. A young female employee at the company, E, revealed UV. She saw when UV was coming out from our warehouse with an envelope which she knew contained precious metals. After that the story unfolds. Shortly thereafter E was placed at the JM Group office in Hong Kong. It allowed us to understand that this was based on security considerations . In connection with the theft I criticized the management. I argued that the thefts , which lasted several years , could have been detected earlier if the company's administrative procedures had worked. I had already in 1983 pointed to weaknesses in the administration. The JM Group management knew this so therefore the " judgement " became hard .

A year after the theft , we who still worked for JM were told that the investigators were not able to get the perpetrator's recognized stolen quantities to conform to what was actually missing. In doing so, it was understood that there could be several suspects. I continued my employment until 1990. At this time , our office in Stockholm was almost completely phased out . Almost immediately after I had finished at JM , I noticed that it started to " snap " in my home phone. I was urged by a number of authorities to submit answers to various " watchdog " issues. I was somewhat puzzled by this because those who were investigating the theft had had plenty of time to " check up " both me and the other staff. I had at that time contact with an employment officer in Tyresö . When I called him, he confirmed that it was the Police who were behind this reconnaissance . However, I could not get confirmation from any quarter that I would be suspected of theft of precious metals. I felt a certain annoyance at being monitored , but took it all with equanimity. Since I had nothing to hide I had nothing to worry about. Years passed and the monitoring continued . I began to suspect that the Police tried to frame me for serious crimes. I wrote to the then Minister of Justice Laila Freivalds on the matter in June 1999. She replied by letter and referred to regulations which basically prevent a minister from somehow act in the case of a private individual. Still , at this time , I made no connection whatsoever to the Palme murder .

8. The Cathrine da Costa Case

Literature: The Death is a man

Author: Per Lindeberg , 1999.

Mr. Lindeberg on about 800 pages accounts of the madness in the Catrine da Costa Case.

In 1984 several prostitutes were murdered in Stockholm . One of these was Miss Cathrine da Costa. Her remains had been found in a number of black plastic bags . One of places where a bag was found was not far away from the Forensic Medicine Centre in Solna, Stockholm. da Costa's remains came to autopsy at this Centre . The coroner Mr. Jovan Rajs was commissioned to do an autopsy . He found that da Costa had been cut up. Head, viscera , genitalia and one breast was missing. The absence of these body parts meant that the cause of death could not be reliably determined. Thus there was a theoretical possibility that da Costa died a natural death , or died in an accident , and then was cut up. The investigators knew that da Costa was a heavy drug users and therefore could have died from an overdose. The Police's hypothesis was that she was murdered. Rajs found that the cut up itself provided some interesting information. The separation of the arms had been made through incisions around the shoulder blades. This approach is reminiscent of the one applied to slaughter of certain animals , such as pigs . There were also signs that the person / s who performed the cut up had knowledge of anatomy . This would be an important indication in the continuing investigation. Another matter was the element of sexual perversion .

A few years back , the young coroner TH worked at the Centre in Solna. Mr. Rajs had taken him under his protection . TH had shown an aptitude for the profession which tempted Rajs to invest in him as coming man for the Centre. Together they were carrying out some science in forensic medicine . In 1982, TH suffered a personal tragedy. His wife, ACH , had committed suicide in the couple's apartment . She had hanged herself . TH had been at dinner with relatives when the suicide occurred . ACH was autopsied at the Forensic Medicine Centre in Solna . The autopsy was obviously a delicate task because TH was working at the Centre. It showed that ACH had committed suicide . The investigators within the Police who handled the case, found no reason to doubt the results. The case was closed.

In the continued pursuit of da Costa's killer interest was directed towards the prostitutes' customers, at Malmskillnadsgatan (a well known street in Stockholm) . The Police knew that da Costa worked on this particular street at the time of the murder. After a period of reconnaissance a tip was that TH would have been one of customers at Malmskillnadsgatan . The Police organized a " photo album " where suspected customers were included. TH was included in the compilation. Then, almost 200 prostitutes were confronted at Malmskillnadsgatan . Several were then able to identify TH as a customer . In a subsequent interrogation TH admitted that he had bought sexual service once at Malmskillnadsgatan . That he would be a major customer of the prostitutes he certainly dismissed. He also denied that he would have had contact with da Costa.

At the end of his education to a Medical Doctor TH had completed his training at Södersjukhuset (major hospital in south Stockholm) . There he became acquainted with TA , general practising doctor . TH had an assignment as a mentor to TA. They also met privately. TA's father was at that time one of the most prominent doctors in Sweden . He had , among other things served at the Karolinska Hospital, Solna . The Forensic Medicine Centre is next door to the Karolinska Hospital in the same area .

TH had during the years of study at high school been involved in Moderat Ungdom ( Moderate Youth) , Stockholm . He had been in contact with Mrs. Lena Liljerot - Adelsohn and Mr. Ulf Adelsohn (both later well known politicians in Sweden) . As the investigation progressed did the interest also target TA. He was married to CA. Together they had a daughter who was about 18 months old at the time of the murder of da Costa. The couple lived in a strained relationship which later led to separation . CA suspected TA for sexually abuse of their daughter . She was examined by doctors on numerous occasions . Nothing was found to suggest that TA was guilty of assault. CA could follow the Police's investigation of the doctors via media. On numerous occasions , she contacted the investigators to share her views . If it was like the investigators suspected , namely that TH and TA , together, had performed the cut up of da Costa at the Forensic Medicine Centre , then it could be a possibility that her little daughter had witnessed the cut up. She had in fact been with TA at the suspected time of the murder , i.e. Whitsun , 1984. Through storytelling and play , she managed to get her daughter to fictitious reproduce the cut up. In the daughter's tell TH got the name farbror (uncle) Tomt (tomte = St Claus) . The reason for using the name "farbror Tomt " may have been that CA used to read bedtime stories from a book that was about St Claus' and which contained illustrations of such .

In March 1980 I was an employee of Johnson Matthey (JM) . After a few weeks my boss , RW, announced we would visit a number of key customers that I would take responsibility for . The first customer we visited was Ångpanneföreningen (ÅF) , Stockholm . The product at issue was called bursting disc and was delivered to ÅF now and then. RW had informed me that JM had only a small part of the total needs that was at the customer. During the visit, we were greeted by a man in his 50s . He was in a managerial position . He informed us of ÅF 's current needs and requirements. As the technology around the product was partially complicated he emphasized on special requirements. RW replied by presenting JM's current position. I noticed that the customer seemed reluctant to RW. The visit lasted about an hour. Just when we were ready to leave the customer made a comment on me . He then named me perverserlund . I was surprised by this attack as I barely uttered during the meeting . When I turned to RW he looked almost shocked. When we left the ÅF , RW was apologetic in a way that made me understand that I should not take it all personally.

In 1994 , I worked as an IT-teacher for a school , Komvux Botkyrka , oriented to education of adult people . At the last lesson in one of my groups before the Christmas break a student announced that I would receive a Christmas gift. When the class was over, the student handed over a small package. I was asked to open the package right away - which I did. The gift was a small St Claus character moulded in earthenware . It was electrified. It had a small light built in it. Judging present students faces there was a symbolic value of the gift. What this symbolic value was has remained a secret to me - until now.

The 1980-12-15 Sixten writes :

"I have begun to feel disgust at Stockholm because of all the misery one hear on radio and see on TV. Now recent of Rågsved . As you know , I usually do not come with " good advices " , if I'm not asked , but I think Liisa and you could move to Skellefteå for example - if you could get a job there , of course. "

I was shocked when I got these lines from Sixten . I had started my employment at Johnson Matthey in March 1980. I had on several occasions told him that I liked it just fine with my wife , job, housing - and Stockholm . That there was a problem with a political affiliation in his proposal was not mistaking . Since I could not figure out where the shoe pinched I let the matter rest .

As I mentioned earlier , Sixten was always well informed . This especially applied to the political sphere . I had earlier this year been termed " perverserlund " in connection with a visit at Ångpanneföreningen. From this I conclude that the planning of the murders of the prostitutes , which occurred in 1984 , started in 1980 . I realize now that Sixten knew I would be framed and therefore was trying to get me to move.

It is quite clear that the two doctors , TH and TA, are victims of a miscarriage of justice . When one considers the legal case " at a distance" , one realizes that there was a reason (motive) for having them framed . My hypothesis is that the Brothel Tangle is the reason. A large number of people have been wronged alternatively felt themselves wronged in the tangle . What human tragedies that might taken place in the wake of the scandal , one can only guess. Someone / some of the offended have taken their positions in the political Vendetta . The two doctors were the victims the offended demanded . When the doctors were desecrated , pointed out as murderers , vampires, paedophiles , distress of their wives and later lost their right to exert their profession - well, then they who were wronged are rehabilitated - all according to the primitive comprehension that the Vendetta restores order. There are plenty of details in the Catrin da Costa case that directly associates to

The Pigs Feast . I dare to say that the architect of the case has studied GW's book ! Then , who is the architect of the political Vendetta in the Catrine da Costa case ? After a few minutes of surfing online you will find that Honest Harry is pointed out as the architect.

9. The Palme Murder

Mr. Lars Borgnäs is the author of Nationens Intresse (The National Interest) , Norstedts' publishing house, 2011.

The book deals with for the nation of Sweden three traumatic events :

- 1) The submarine infringements in the early 80's.
- 2) The assassination of Prime Minister Olof Palme, 1986
- 3) The Estonia disaster , 1994

To most of us these events are not directly linked . The new approach that the author takes is to show that the State Authorities concealed the truth in all these three cases. Thus emerges a pattern which shows that the purpose was to act in the national interest . Borgnäs discuss in depth the motives about this . That he himself is a supporter of the truth , there is no doubt . His conclusion is that it's reprehensible to withhold the nation of Sweden the truth in order to protect the interests of the nation .

Motives

A variety of motives have been raised during the investigation. Since Mr. Palme was a controversial politician , there has been no lack of suggested motives . My understanding is that only a few motives have credibility.

During the period after the Second World War, the CIA's main task was to keep track of the global spread of Communism . Sweden's military strategic location was a concern to the United States. Our country could easily be invaded by the Soviet Union and subsequently used as a bridgehead at invasion of NATO country Norway . Our marine bases along the Baltic coast could be taken over and then give the enemy full control over the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Bothnia. If the Soviet Union could gain control of NATO's northern flank in this way , large parts of northern Europe would remain under severe strain. Thus, there were special reasons for the CIA to keep track of the political developments in the "neutral " Sweden . Everything was fine until in 1969. Then Sweden got a new prime minister named Olof Palme.

Palme was labelled as a " communist " by the CIA already before he took office as Prime Minister. Reasons included his opposition concerning the Vietnam War. Palme wanted an end to the inhumane suffering of the Vietnamese people . When the war could be summarized , the U.S. had lost 58,000 men. The Vietnamese Government , in 1995 , stated that 5.2 million Vietnamese were killed in the war. It's likely that the greatest critic of the Vietnam War , Olof Palme , was placed high on the CIA's death list when the final summary was made.

In the early 80's Sweden was subject to submarine infringements. It all culminated in the fall of 1982 with the so-called Hårsfjärden incident ( 59° 4'38.57" 18° 8'8.69" ). The same autumn had Palme been re-elected as Prime Minister after the Social Democratic election victory. Naval Officers at Berga naval base were convinced that the Soviet Union was behind the infringements . The evidence pointed to were the propeller sounds (cavitation sounds) that the submarines emitted . It was well documented previously which "sound profile" each type (class) of submarine had . The sounds captured matched the Soviet submarines "sound profile". One could also point to the fact that the Soviet submarine U-137 had run aground in the Karlskrona archipelago in October 1981. Already at that time scepticism appeared among media and politicians . Particularly sceptical were the Social Democrats . They thought it was strange that the Navy failed to get one single hostile submarine to the surface - alternatively not managed to sink someone. The suspicion was that it was in fact NATO submarines that tested the Swedish defence capability . The Swedish Navy's leadership would have prior knowledge of when and how " infringements " would happen. The depth charges that the Navy fired were directed in such a way that the " offending " submarines would not be damaged . A Submarine Safety Commission was appointed to investigate the infringements . In 1983 , the Commission concluded that the Soviet Union must be held responsible for the Hårsfjärden incident . The Government submitted a protest to the Soviet Union.

Lars Borgrnäs writes in The National Interest that former U.S. Secretary of Defence , Caspar Weinberger and England's former Navy Minister Keith Speed much later confirmed that it was NATO that was behind the " infringements " . It was simply a military exchange that NATO had in full agreement with the Swedish Navy. In 1994 it became known that the propeller sounds that the Swedish Navy had recorded were in fact sounds from swimming minks .

The infringements created a lasting rift between the government and senior naval officers . They felt that the government had shown indulgence toward the Soviet Union . The situation became acute prior Palme's planned visit to Moscow in April 1986. The officers suspected that Palme would sell out the interests of Sweden to the Soviet leaders. They signed a petition against Palme who later became known as " The Naval Officer Insurrection." There were Officers who openly designated Palme as a traitor and that he therefore " must be removed" .

When one consider the motives , with the CIA as a major conspirator , one have to keep in mind that throughout the postwar period the U.S. made ardent attempts to affiliate Sweden to NATO. The idea was that NATO would definitely secure the northern flank by Sweden's membership. The CIA regarded Palme as the person who blocked an affiliation. Other leading Social Democrats were not a problem. That the CIA and NATO cooperates closely is well known. It's likely that the CIA orchestrated a turn of events , starting with the submarine infringements , which would destabilize Palme's position in Sweden and on the world political arena. When one look at the CIA's methods of removing unwanted political leaders, in other regions, the approach is well recognized. When the leader is destabilized the operation facilitates in subsequent phases. I'm talking about the acquisition of associates, logistics, etc. to perform the elimination . There are many theories regarding how many people who have been part of the conspiracy. The best-informed analysts believe that a few people are included in the innermost circle . This is likely because the risks of the operation increases as the number of members of the conspiracy increases. Risk of " leakage " defection , etc. is always there. How many people indirectly involved in one way or another is impossible to know . One can participate in a conspiracy even through failure to take action . I will return to this point later .

The murder

When one regard William Blum's " death list " one realize that the CIA has extensive expertise when it comes to this type of operations. There are " defectors " from the CIA who confirmed that there are special people who "write " the main features of each operation . Then they have specialists who take on in each phase of the operation. A number of Swedish private investigators have named the person who planned the elimination of Palme.

Most private investigators are unanimous regarding the professionalism shown by the perpetrator at the store Dekorima the 28th February 1986 , at 11:21 p.m.( 59°20'11.78" 18° 3'45.99" ) :

The first shot was placed in a direct -killing way . Palme was in practice clinically dead when he fell to the ground. The subsequent autopsy has ensured that fact.

The Police estimate that there were 22 relevant witnesses near the crime scene . No witness was able to give a useful description regarding the perpetrator's face. He has managed to hide his face in a professional way - without being masked .

The witnesses' description of the perpetrator's conduct on the crime scene indicates that he performed his duties in a chilly manner. He acted calmly.

The bullet that pierced Mr. Palme's body was of type metal piercing . Such a bullet can penetrate a bulletproof vest . The weapon was of type " magnum " which gives the opportunity to use a heavy-duty powder charge in the cartridge.

Two witnesses are deemed to have seen the whole episode at the crime scene . Their testimonies indicates that the perpetrator took his position shortly before Palme came to Dekorima . That the perpetrator has exposed himself to minimum at the crime scene falls neatly into the professional behaviour which he shown in general.

The crime scene had been chosen with care . Escape through Tunnelgatan and the stairs up to Malmskillnadsgatan made it impossible to pursue the perpetrator by car. There were also alternative escape routes to waiting cars near the crime scene .

Cover up

In the professional handling of the operation that the Palme murder forms it also includes planning for the probable course of events after the murder . A key element of the strategy relates to the deployment of "red herrings". The CIA has a plethora of behavioural scientists in their ranks because intelligence in many ways is a discipline related to psychology. These people's job is to outline strategies for dealing with the mass media effects that follow in the wake of various types of operations . The basic idea is that misinformation should occupy the media and investigators to the extent that the relevant trails get low priority. The Audit Commission provides an example of how misinformation can be designed. At page 434 one can find the following:

"In this case , he submitted what Roland S called " three-step information . " This means that the informant first leaves a true information that is easy to control. Then, gives a true information that is difficult to control. Finally, gives an false information that is impossible to control . "

The Audit Commission's Report (all in Swedish)

The informant is a so-called information swindler who worked for the CIA and a number of other organizations with intelligence on their program. Private investigators have succeeded in identifying a plurality of information swindlers who appeared in the Palme murder . The swindlers task has been to fabricate false trails that would lead the investigation away from suspicions of a conspiracy. At first, the media became an easy prey to their business. Some "red herrings" were exposed heavily in the media , which meant that the Police felt pressured to do follow-ups. This was a time consuming job which gave the conspirators the time they wished. The first "red herring" the Police processed was the so-called PKK track (PKK is a Kurdish organization regarded as terrorists by the CIA). This trail ended in failure. The Police Head, Hans Holmér , who was responsible for the decision to process the trail was forced to resign . Another part of the misinformation included planting of trails that would lead to lone madman's. In my initial hypothesis, this is where I have posed in the investigation. CIA failed greatly both with me and a number of other candidates. When they finally decided to go for Christer Pettersson the fiasco was completed.

The CIA has always had a firm grasp of the Palme investigation . Already on the night of the murder the Police interrogated a number of witnesses about their observations. Several interrogation reports were published . When one compare what some witnesses said in their first interview with what they said in later interviews it is clear that some came under pressure . They change their testimonies on key points . This becomes particularly clear for the "dangerous" witnesses who might suggest a conspiracy.

The so-called Grand Man is a "red herring" . The purpose of the trail is to strengthen the Police's hypothesis about the lone madman . The Grand Man is the presumed perpetrator in connection with his appearance at the cinema Grand - the cinema that spouses Palme visited the night of the murder . The Grand Man would have waited at the cinema to see in which direction the spouses were to go after the show ended. He then moved on foot on Sveavägen's west side walk down to Dekorima . The Grand Man is the Police's fabrication to fit Christer Pettersson into the role of the lone madman . The private investigator , Mr. Sven Anér , has shown that the Police has been engaged in suspicious evidence forgery to get the testimonies against the Grand Man ( = Christer Pettersson ) to fit.

Seven years after the murder the theories of the so-called Dekorima Man were presented in major Swedish media. The Finnish women " Katya " and " Pirjo " have testified concerning the Dekorima Man:

The man stood at the corner of Dekorima . They have revealed that they asked him what time it was - because none of them had her own watch at the moment. Just then he received a message over the walkie-talkie he was carrying . He replied to the message. They also saw that he had a gun under his arm. Shortly after they had left the scene , they heard a " bang " , but decided to continue homewards. The following day they took part of the news of the murder. They then understood that they could have seen the supposed perpetrator. They agreed not to mention the incident to anyone.

This track lacks credibility. Not even an amateur murderer would expose himself in the way that the women are describing. Most evidence suggest that the perpetrator was a " pro" . No witnesses, beside the two women , indicate that the perpetrator should have waited at Dekorima for any length of time. As he was carrying a walkie-talkie and thus got continuous information about Mr. Palme's position on Sveavägen there was no reason to expose himself . He could have taken his position at the very last moment . At the time the theories of the Dekorima Man were launched there was a lot of interest in the media about the so-called " Police trail " . Since the Dekorima Man also been identified as a Police Officer and member of the infamous Stockholm Police group " The Baseball League" , one can suspect that the trail was planted as a revenge for the Police's treatment of Christer Pettersson. The CIA has no involvement in this "red herring".

The private investigators have documented numerous cases where tips to the Police " come off " or " was forgotten" . They simply have not been processed. Examples include tips on the walkie-talkie observations made in the vicinity of the crime scene hours before the murder. Common to these tips are that they pointed to a conspiracy. Leading Social Democrats have been " surprised " when they received the information . It has been "taken for granted " that the tips would be processed and so on. Also the Audit Commission has pointed at the anomaly. The Police's passivity to certain tips is an indication that it had entered into the conspiracy. I want to emphasize that it is obviously not all Police Officers who worked on the investigation that were members of the conspiracy. However, it's always the case that when a Police Officer is ordered to act in a certain way he follows the given instructions. Option i.e. not to follow the order can be tantamount to dismissal , transfer, harassment , etc. . The Police's passivity constitutes an active part of the cover up. Whether the failure to act may be subject to suspicion of crime ( misconduct ) is a legal question that I would not consider here . However, few things in the investigation has outraged as much as the Police's passivity in these cases.

The Audit Commission addresses the CIA trail at 17 pages in their report (pp. 428-445 ) . In 1988 the Palme murder deputy investigation chief, Mr. Ingemar Krusell , sent a letter to the State Department . The idea was that the letter would be forwarded to the Swedish Embassy in Washington. Mr. Wilhelm Wachtmeister was ambassador at the time. Krusell desired increased knowledge of the CIA for the assessment of reconnaissance lookups. Secretary of the State Department, Mr. Pierre Schori , assessed the inquiry as questionable why it was never sent to the embassy. Krusell had compiled the following questions:

- 1) What status occupies the CIA today in relation to the government and parliament ?
- 2) Has the CIA through constitution or otherwise been assigned to any stand-alone status in respect of execution of the security or the formulation of its policy on political issues?
- 3) What is the CIA's primary mission today , and how is the business organized ?
- 4) How did the U.S. regard Sweden and Swedish policy at the time of the assassination of Prime Minister Olof Palme? ( The issue is set against the background of the "marks " made by the U.S. side during the Vietnam War era, recall of the ambassador , etc.)
- 5 ) Which direction can one presume that the CIA had for its operations in Sweden in the mid 80's?
- 6) Was there at the beginning of 1986 any reason for the U.S. and its intelligence agency, CIA, based on an objective assessment - to regard the person and politician Olof Palme as such a danger to their own interests , that the removal of him was close at hand ?
- 7) Is it in the perspective of foreign policy issues such as frequent phenomenon that the great powers intelligence organizations eliminate respectively let remove them politically inconvenient people in the state leading function? ( The issue is set based on the currently frequent demur, that the superpower's in question loss of goodwill at the discovery of its intelligence organization being perpetrator is much greater than the possible benefits of the removal of the person in question. )
- 8) Follow-up question to questions 6. and 7. : Would according to the State Department's assessment any super power - such as the United States through the CIA - when the answer is " Yes " to question 6, be prepared to eliminate a state's leading politicians, notwithstanding the risk of a large goodwill loss?

9) Has the State Department and its officials at the Swedish Embassy in Washington received or experienced some kind of reaction from non-official American side after the assassination of Olof Palme , from which conclusions could be made about e.g. CIA's involvement in the assassination ?

My comment on the above :

It is interesting to see that Krusell's letter consists of relevant issues . One can imagine that he at that time , two years after the murder , was seeking information that could confirm that the murder riddle's solution was to be found in a context where it became inaccessible . I don't think Krusell had expected any answers - but still the letter earned its purpose as a "mark" from the investigation . More and fuller information about this "incident " could be found on private investigator Mr. Anders Leopold's website :

<http://www.leopoldreport.com/Pierre.html>

So, who is the man who shot Olof Palme? My opinion is that his name is CW.

Gunnar Wall

Mr. Gunnar Wall is the author of the book "Cover up - State Power and the Palme Murder" Publishing house Kärret , 1996. The book has been awarded the Prize for Journalism, Guldspaden (the gold shovel) .

Wall exposes the Police's crime in the investigation in a shocking way . There is a large degree of rigour in what he reveals . I want to tip all readers about the possibility of taking up the crime scene ( 59°20'11.78" 18° 3'45.99" ) in Google Earth and using the tools available to verify Wall's facts. One can e.g. simply measure the walking distances that various witnesses had in the schedule that applies from 23:21 p.m. , i.e. when the shots were fired . One can also get an idea of how well various witnesses may have perceived details from their respective positions , by going down on the ground level.

A central section of Wall's book is his description of the so-called Meeting Scenario .The scenario aims at that Olof Palme would have an appointment with someone on his walk from the cinema Grand towards the Old Town (where his residence was). That the meeting would take place just at Dekorima is considered likely since several walkie- talkie observations were made near the store hours before the murder. Wall's contexture of the scenario has credibility and reinforces the conspiracy theory . If one accepts the Meeting Scenario , one also in the next step must accept that someone on a high-level is involved in the conspiracy.

The Lone Madman

As the lone madman is the Grand Man , the witnesses who had been on / at the cinema Grand have been of interest to the Police . I estimate that about 20 witnesses have confronted me over the years. Since I have been bugged by the Police they have been able to " redirect " witnesses to the various places I planned to visit . It has been the issue of public places such as shops, meeting rooms, etc. Also the various job sites that I have had have been used for confrontation. In the public materials regarding the Palme murder that I have read , I have been able to identify at least one witness because the person in question has been presented with her full name . When I was confronted I have not known (of course) that the person was a witness in the Palme investigation, but the situation demanded that the witness introduced herself to me .

Another witness , I have been able to identify when I was invited to " coffee " in RF's home . I have recapitulated this event :

In addition to RF and I was another person at the coffee table . I had never met this person before. After a while the conversation turned to my interest in cinema. The witness wanted to know if I had ever visited the Grand. I thought the question was odd because I had rather expected questions about any movies I've seen. After ploughing through my " photographic memory " , I remembered that I visited the cinema once in the mid 70 's when I was newcomer in Stockholm . When the witness got this information arose disappointment among both the witness and RF . The coffee ended abruptly.

Lars Borgnäs writes in his book The National Interest that the Palme murder investigation chief Hans Ölvebro , mid 90s , had processed a list of about 80 people who could be of interest to the investigation. I consider all of these as Grand Men because the Police at that time was only interested in the hypothesis of the lone madman . The fiasco with Christer Pettersson was over. New Grand Men were needed. How many of these the Police tried to frame can only speculated about. I think it would be appropriate that responsible authorities examine how it relates to these Grand Men . Have they gotten a legal treatment ?

In 1997 the Nazi Mats Hinze was caught when he was on his way to plant a bomb at Millesgården , Lidingö, Stockholm. I was scheduled, a.m. September the 5th , for an eye exam of my then 8 year old daughter , at a clinic located near Millesgården. I had to cancel the visit late in the afternoon on the 4th because my daughter got ill. It was with some surprise that I read in the major Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter , the day after , that Hinze had been arrested.

Further Attempts By The CIA

In June 1999 a bank robbery occurred at Swedbank, Trollbäcken . The robbers made a brutal approach which allowed the offence to receive much attention . Since I lived in the neighbourhood I used to visit the shopping centre where the bank was located several times a week. To my surprise the people I met watched at me suspiciously . Later I learned that the Police had spread the rumour that I would have participated in the robbery.

Later in the summer , 1999 , a number of forest fires occurred in southern Stockholm . Again I was told that the Police spread the rumour that I was the perpetrator .

On the 28th of June 1999 , at about 9 a.m. , one of my neighbours , SF , came over to me with his 7 year old daughter . I was at home alone with my daughter. Now and then my daughter used to play with his . He offered to go out on an excursion with the girls. I was surprised at this offer because he had never been out with them in that way before. I accepted immediately his offer because I had a doctor's appointment booked at 11am at Trollbäcken's Medical centre ( I was treated for a slipped disc ) . As I sat in the waiting room at the centre , several nurses came in and looked at me suspiciously . When I came in to the doctors office (she was a summer substitute ) she examined my back. Then she started asking questions that related to my mental health. She insinuated that I was mentally ill . I dismissed this and left the health centre almost immediately . Later in the day I heard on the radio that the journalist Peter Karlsson and his son suffered a blasts at the Stockholm suburb Nacka. They were both seriously injured by a car bomb. The attack occurred at 10:30 a.m.

These events , in 1999 , occurred shortly after the Audit Commission published it's report of the Palme murder . The report is available at the link below:

Granskningskommissionen (all in Swedish)

During the period 1978 - 1982 , I was living at street address Lövsåtragränd at the Stockholm suburb Sättra. I used to help my neighbour , VB, with his annual income tax return. I went on with this assignment after that I moved to Tyresö . On October 12, 1999, the Syndicalist Björn Söderberg was murdered in an apartment quite close to VB. I have read the District Court's verdict against those who carried out the murder. The verdict can be found online .

Söderberg had worked as a summer temp at Esselte Svanström´s warehouse at the Stockholm suburb Skärholmen . In the same premises was also Robert Vesterlund -well known Nazi at Info 14. Vesterlund appeared in T-shirts with Nazi symbols and played white - power music . Vesterlund was a union representative . Söderberg "revealed" Vesterlund to the management. Vesterlund was fired . Söderberg also contacted the newspaper Arbetaren (The Worker) who wrote a story about it. The District Court considers that the murder of Söderberg was a retaliation for his disclosure of Vesterlund. It has been substantiated that there were links between the Nazis who carried out the murder and Vesterlund - but Vesterlund was acquitted of the murder . Säpo peered on the three that performed the murder that particular evening . Twenty minutes before the fatal shots fell Säpo cancelled their reconnaissance . The following day Säpo contacted the Police's homicide department which led to the perpetrators' arrest . The questions one can ask in connection to this "story " are :

Who arranged the summer substitution for Söderberg ?

Who at the Union had the responsibility for Vesterlund´s appointment as a Union representative?

Who at Säpo ordered that the reconnaissance would be suspended 20 minutes before the murder?

It's known that the perpetrators had access to walkie-talkies at the murder.

In 2009 Mr. Rikard Karlsson was murdered in a property located a few hundred yards from my then home address . Murderer : Pepe Berglund. He tried to flee but was arrested shortly after the murder. It has been established that Berglund was mentally ill . I can not rule out that this was an attempt to frame me (the lone madman scenario) .

In 2010 I worked as a teacher (economics) for the education businesses Mindful and Lernia. I always used to start the courses by introducing myself. I emphasize then that I'm married and have two kids. Nonetheless, it was very clear that , in both of these schools, they had rigged up female students who would act as " honey traps "

The Palme Case today

Mr. Borgnäs believes that the Palme murder investigation is " mummified " and only consists of a mailbox for incoming tips. The Palme murder will not be time-barred , which means that the legal system has continued requirement to solve it. The reason that the legal case is not time-barred is considered to be fear of investigation materials becoming public if it would be time-barred.

My assessment is that the legal system can not operate on a " pretend - investigation" endlessly. The reason is that "ridicule" occurs. It damages the credibility of the legal system and thus confidence in democracy. The whole investigation may submit a corrupt shade that adds to the distrust from the voters. The country's largest newspaper, Aftonbladet (AB), still chooses to point out Christer Pettersson as perpetrator. In this way it seeks to silence the court's verdict. Pettersson is acquitted in the Court of Appeal and therefore can't be considered as perpetrator. Talk of the murder as being "cleared up by the Police" is another pathetic way to override the Court of Appeal's verdict. That AB is trying to "bury" the Palme murder together with Christer Pettersson only gives the impression that the paper wants to discredit the Court of Appeal. The explanation of the paper's stance is the owner, Schibsted, based in NATO country Norway. In this connection it is unthinkable to AB even mentioning the CIA in the Palme investigation. "The fight" about the justice in the case has since been reduced to what the voters would express in terms of public opinion regarding the conspiracy theory and the theory of the lone madman. A few years ago I saw a Gallup, but not in AB, which showed that 30% believed in the madman, 60% believed in the conspiracy, and 10% did not know. The People's Court had spoken. Today the Palme murder's political influence is marginal. This is known by our politicians. Hence there is little or no hope that any political initiatives to revive the investigation would be taken. Despite this, there are serious grounds for the investigation to be addressed in a serious way again. It is important that justice is executed from a preventive perspective. Political violence can not be allowed to win in one single case. If the perpetrators of violence would see that our society is standing up against violence and let justice take its course, then our democracy will be strengthened. Conversely, it's a disaster if the perpetrators of violence would get the impression that they can influence our democratic stipulations through violence.

10. The Murder of Anna Lindh

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Anna Lindh, was murdered at the NK department store (59°19'59.35" 18° 4'9.02") in central Stockholm on 10th of September 2003. Lindh was out shopping with her friend Mrs. Eva Franchell. Lindh would be involved in a TV debate concerning the upcoming referendum on EMU. She would buy some new clothes prior to the performance. They decided to go the Filippa K store inside NK. Lindh was suddenly attacked by a man with a knife. He stabs her in her abdomen several times. Lindh falls down on the floor. The killer flees. Lindh quickly get first aid from a doctor who happens to be inside NK. The ambulance arrives and Lindh is brought to Karolinska Hospital for immediate surgery. Despite major medical interventions Lindh dies at 5.29 a.m. the following day.

After some time of reconnoissances 24-year-old Mijailo Mijailovic is arrested. He has been identified with help of images from the department store's surveillance cameras. The Police believes that the evidences against Mijailovic are compelling. He will later be sentenced to life imprisonment.

I have read about the preliminary investigation against Mijailovic. When reading about the witnesses description of the perpetrator, you realize that Mijailovic is not the one who held the knife. Here you can download the preliminary investigation (all in Swedish):

1. Huvudprotokoll.pdf

2. Tillägg.pdf

3. Tillägg.pdf

4. Protokollbilaga

My hypothesis is as follows:

Mijailovic has been fooled to participate in a fictitious planned robbery against NK . His task was to at a given time locate any security guards and Police Officers at the department store . He would check all floors . From the surveillance images one can see that he scouts as he walks around. There is nothing in his facial expression or movement pattern that indicate that he is about to murder the Minister of Foreign Affairs . NOTE: He is believed to be a lone madman - but he behaves hardly as a such. Mijailovic knows there are surveillance cameras in the department store. It would be crazy to expose himself in the way he does if he is about to commit a murder . The people entrusted to assassinate the Minister are likely to have taken their positions well before she arrives at NK . It may involve two or three people. These are highly trained professionals. The offender has inflicted Lindh serious abdominal injuries by rotating his knife after he stabbed her . Doctors have been able to verify this fact. There are no surveillance images from the offender when he rushes out . Why not ? There should also be surveillance images showing him on his escape route outside the department store. Where are these images? On his escape route he threw his knife in an escalator . Mijailovic's DNA has not been found on the knife. Lindh's DNA has been found on the knife. No witness was able to confirm that the perpetrator wore gloves during the attack. No DNA , either from Lindh or Mijailovic , links Mijailovic to the murder.

Lindh's husband , Mr. Bo Holmberg, has said that Mijailovic lacked a credible motive for his act . In the interrogations Mijailovic refers to " inner voices " that told him to kill Lindh. He felt no personal grudge against Lindh. He described her as a " nice person " .

Two doctors have been wronged in the Catrine da Costa Case. They are assigned their respective positions in the political Vendetta . They have been rehabilitated , whether they liked it or not, by the murder of Anna Lindh. When reading Per Lindberg's book " The Death is a man " one can find details showing that the architect of the Lindh murder had studied his book.

When can we expect that the Lindh family get rehabilitation? Who is expected to be the next victim of the political Vendetta ? Personally, I have a desire that the architect will terminate his activities. Is it too much to ask that the political combatants in Sweden should return to a legal order based on democracy and respect for human rights?

11. The Arboga Murders, 2008

The 17th of march 2008 two children were murdered, Saga, 1 year and 10 months old and Max, 4 years and 10 months old. Crime scene: Arboga. Their mother was badly beaten during the murders but survived. The murders brought modest attention within Swedish media. My personal opinion is that these murders must be classified as one of the worst crimes ever committed in Sweden. The autopsy of the children reveals the violence used. To get an idea of the violence the perpetrator performed one must take part of the photos found in the investigation. I would like to point out that the exposure of the children's crushed skulls could be perceived as intrusive but I still choose to present the photos. The purpose is to point out the insanity that the offender performed. My conclusion is that he is mentally ill.

Max, 4 years and 10 months old.

Saga 1 year and 10 months old.

I've been compromised for the crime. A smear campaign was orchestrated in my home municipality, Tyresö. I have taken part of the extensive preliminary investigation against the German citizen Christine Schürrer. She was prosecuted and sentenced to life imprisonment. She has absolutely no involvement in the crime. The perpetrator is SL.

What can motivate a man to carry out a crime like this? To get a full understanding one must have insight into the contradictions that exist within the Swedish "liberated" churches. The offence is primarily related to the contradictions that have existed for a long time between Jehovah's Witnesses and the Whitsun Church. The conflict can be described as a kind of Vendetta. The violence is intended to intimidate the opponent into submission. This is reminiscent of Nazi and Fascist methods. I have mapped the offender's background. He is connected to Jehovah's Witnesses. I want to emphasize in this context that I have no connection whatsoever to the Swedish "liberated" churches.

12. New World Order

U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower ended his tenure by giving a speech in January , 1961. He then warned of " unwarranted influence" by the military-industrial complex. This was surely a way to alert his successor John F Kennedy. It was later proven that the warning had relevance.

Here you can see Eisenhower's speech:

Eisenhower warns us of the military industrial complex.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8y06NSBBRtY>

In the U.S. the military organization walks hand in hand with the corporations that supplies munitions. Together they form the military-industrial complex. Millions of people work in the companies producing munitions. They are mostly privately owned . If the United States engage in warfare around the world, there will be an increased need for munitions . It provides jobs for the people within the war material industry. The gains for the companies will increase. Their private owners increases their fortunes . The owners are expected to share their earnings by giving contributions to the Democrat's or the Republican's party funds - depending on which party currently in power. The absence of contributions reduces the companies abilities to get the lucrative contracts. As an example of the values that are traded in the war material industry can be mentioned that the U.S. helicopter manufacturer Bell delivered about 3 000 helicopters during the Vietnam War . One can say that the various players have a win-win situation. The more wars the better. Or am I wrong ? After all, someone is going to pay for the warfare. If I'm not completely misinformed this "someone" is the American taxpayer. You have to convince him , every day, that the nation needs a well-equipped army. " We must never relax when it comes to terrorism and Communism " , is the message to the taxpayers.

Kennedy demonstrated almost immediately , after taking office , that he wouldn't provide any power-sharing with the military-industrial complex . The U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia at that time was modestly. Kennedy had nevertheless soon announced that the troops in Vietnam would be withdrawn. Already here , he had made powerful enemies within the complex.

It would become worse . In 1959 Fidel Casto had taken over in Cuba. He proclaimed a communist dictatorship . The U.S. suddenly had Communism around the corner - just 93 miles away from Florida's southern coast . Castro cleaned up in the capital, Havana. The town was a popular hangout for American millionaires. Prostitution , drugs and gambling was " big business " . Castro closed down these businesses without compensating the owners , the Mafia , primarily localized to Miami and New Orleans. The Mafia was determined that Castro would be removed in one way or another . They had hopes of making common cause with the newly appointed president , Kennedy, who disliked the Communist dictatorship .

In 1961 the CIA and the Mafia managed to gather about 1,500 Cuban exiles . These were trained under the supervision of the CIA in Florida. The plan was that the troops would invade Cuba by sea , while the U.S. Air Force would provide support by bombing. They had assigned a strip of land , the Bay of Pigs on Cuba's southern coast , as a suitable place for landing . The night of April 14 the attack began. The CIA promised Air Force support came largely to be missing. The exile Cuban troops were therefore an easy prey for the numerical superior Cuban troops . After three days the battle was over . About 100 exiled Cubans had fallen . The remaining 1,400 were taken prisoner. These were dissolved later and released from captivity by the U.S.. They sent baby food and medicines to Cuba for a value equivalent to $ 53 million . The anger within the CIA and the Mafia was great after this fiasco . They felt that they had been betrayed by Kennedy because the Air Force support failed to turn up.

On 22nd of November 1963 Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas , Texas. The official version , though the so-called Warren Commission, was that Kennedy had been assassinated by a lone madman. His name was Lee Harvey Oswald . He was never prosecuted because he was shot to death 48 hours after his arrest .

After taking part of the American private investigators reveals, I believe that there is convincing evidence that the Kennedy assassination was a conspiracy. Stakeholders within the military-industrial complex are considered as protagonists. A couple of people within the CIA and members of the Mafia in Chicago and New Orleans are considered as responsible for the planning and the elimination. NOTE: The CIA had not "approved" this operation. The organization as a whole can not be charged for the murder.

The assassination was carried out when Kennedy came in his motorcade through downtown Dallas. When they arrived at Dealey Plaza shots echoed. Hundreds of people witnessed the murder. A number of amateur filmmakers and amateur photographers have documented the murder. When you watch their films and photographs , you realize that the conspirators wanted to design the murder as a demonstration of power . The whole event was additionally theatrically designed . The whole world could take part of the awful, terrifying and incomprehensible .

The term New World Order ( NWO ) has been around for at least 50 years. Loosely linked networks are tied to this term. Private investigators have identified some so-called masonic lodges as followers of the NWO . The individual members can be senior representatives of military, police, politics, business and public administration . The secrecy about Freemasons is ample . Private investigators believe that the people who conspired against Kennedy, at the highest level , were / are followers of the NWO .

Common to all the followers of the NWO is to think that democracy is a bad idea. Because many of these have substantial wealth , they want a greater say in what happens on the world economic level . The economic downturn in the world economy in recent years has meant that many of these NWO supporters have been forced to see their fortunes shrink. They would then see a new world order that would protect their assets. There is a lot of information online about the NWO . Some very good information but also things that I regard as nonsense. Some exposes the New World Order with complete organizational diagrams and numbers and names of the persons to be included in the forthcoming World Government. Fiction or reality? Judge for yourself .

According to the American private investigators there is an ongoing process in the U.S. that aims to disarm the American people . Under the Constitution, every American has the right to own a firearm. Currently there is no political majority for a change of this right.

Private investigators believe that the massacres , where lone madmans are portrayed as perpetrators, and occurred in the U.S. in recent years , is intended to get voters (and thus politicians ) on second thought. If enough mass shootings occur it can veer the public opinion as to establish a political majority for a constitutional change which would implicate severely limits in the right to own a firearm.

A "massacre " which has gained great publicity in the U.S is the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting . It occurred in December 14, 2012 . According to initial reports the lone madman Adam Lanza had shot and killed an entire school class consisting of children at elementary school level. The American private investigators have scrutinized this event . They have found that all of it was a hoax . Here you find a video that presents the event:

On September 11, 2001 attacks were made on the Pentagon ( Washington) and the World Trade Centre ( New York). The U.S. government has designated terrorists linked to al-Qaeda as responsible . The truth has been proven to be on another level. The new term that the private investigators have established is False Flag Operations. The conspirators method here is to get terrorist attacks to look like something completely different from what they actually are . The following video presents proof that 9 /11 was False Flag :

13. Political Murders in the U.S.

A number of investigative journalists and writers who have scrutinized the Palme murder have found parallels in comparisons with the assassinations of John F Kennedy, Robert F Kennedy and Martin Luther King. There is a large amount of information about these murders online. The recurring theme in American media , which has targeted the conspiratorial theories , is that much about the murders have been covered up in a systematic way . Admittedly, Robert F Kennedy's and Martin Luther King's murderers have been prosecuted and convicted, but the question marks are many. Robert F Kennedy was assassinated at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, in 1968. Several witnesses statements' indicate that he was shot from behind with three shots. Also the autopsy of Kennedy's body indicates that this was the case . Witnesses said the convicted perpetrator , Sirhan , approached Kennedy from the front and therefore can't be the one who shot . The cover-up about the murder reveals a frightening interior. The Police destroyed basically all the evidence , which to this day prevents further investigation. The CIA appears frequently as a suspect conspirator among the American private investigators .

On YouTube, there are a large number of documentaries that deal with the aforementioned murders. One problem encountered when seeking the truth in this forum is that many productions are planted as misinformation. One can learn how to separate the good from the bad by scrutinizing those who are responsible for the productions . I personally have found that Wikipedia is very helpful when one want to get basic facts about a well known person. After a while one could discover which private investigators are credible . One can also check how many views a particular video had. If that number is it at a comparatively high level it can be assumed that you are dealing with a credible production . However, this is not a guarantee that the current video presents the truth to 100%. Here I leave suggestions on a number of productions with high veracity :

14. The European Court of Human Rights

I have addressed a case in the European Court of Human Rights:

My complaint to the Court on the 26th of February 2011:

"I have been monitored by the Swedish Police since the early 90s. I believe that the surveillance is illegal because it violates the Police Act § 8. I don't know why I'm monitored. I have asked the Police to send an excerpt from any notes that are about me in the Police's records . This has been denied me because of confidentiality . I have requested that Justitiekanslern and Justitieombudsmannen should take part of the records that exist of me at the Police . This has been denied me . I have never been prosecuted for any crime. I have never been questioned by the Police . I have never participated in any political activities. I am just an ordinary person living with my family in a suburb of Stockholm . There is no legal basis for the surveillance. It's only matter of defamation . My Phone is monitored. My email is monitored. My internet activities are monitored. My letters are opened. My car is bugged ( GSM bug ) . I think that the Swedish government has violated Article 8 of the Convention , the right to respect for private and family life."

The court has submitted it's verdict on 26th of January 2012:

"I write to inform you that on 22 of March 2012 the European Court of Human Rights , sitting in a single - judge formation ( A. Nußberger assisted by a rapporteur in accordance with Article 24 § 2 of the Convention) , decide to declare inadmissible in your application lodged on 15 March 2011 and registered under the above mentioned number.

In light of all material in its possession, and in so far as the matters complained of were within its competence, the Court found that the criteria set out in Articles 34 and 35 of the Convention have not been met.

This decision is final. It is not subject to any appeal either to the Grand Chamber or to any other body. The Registry is unable to provide you with any further details concerning the Single Judge's decision. Consequently, you will not receive any further correspondence from the Court in connection with this case. In accordance with the Court's instructions, the file will be destroyed one year after the date of the Single Judge's decision. "

My comment on the above :

The outcome of the case was expected . Already in the early stages ( spring 2011) , I received indications that my complaint would be dismissed. The reason for this is spelled CIA. They can buy themselves out of difficulties when they occur. In such a context, the human rights has no worth. Along the way , I have on numerous occasions been subject to veiled threats . How many times have I been dead and buried ? I've lost count .The Court's proceedings have been miserable . The Court has requested me, by letter, to send documents I already submitted . The processing has been slow. In a letter dated the 25th August 2011 administrator Anders Månsson writes:

"In this context , I would emphasize the need to avoid delay and to emphasize that if you fail to provide the requested documents within six months, will your act , without further notice, be destroyed. Extension of this period is not possible. "

As appears from the verdict the reasons for it are covered up . The court doesn't respond to my claims in my complaint on one single point ! This is similar to the procedure of courts located in countries that are not considered legally safe . In Sweden , we take the human rights for granted. Yet the fact is that when authorizes and politicians are having the CIA as " playmate " anything can happen. I understand from the Court's verdict that it's OK for continued harassment and surveillance. What I suffered is an unprecedented indignity.

Genealogy

In the recent past (fall 2016), I have put a lot of work to find my family tree. The somewhat surprising result is the following:

I'm adopted close up to my birth. My biological parents are within the royalist Europe. I was adopted in 1946 by spouses Johanne and Sixten Westerlund. Also they have biological parents within the royalist Europe. They are half-siblings. My sister EW is adopted. One of her biological parents is within the royalist Europe. EW and I have different biological parents. People within the Jehovah's Witnesses have been involved in the adoptions.

Heinrich Himmler

During my early teens in Arjeplog, I came to take an interest in the history about World War 2. A lot of information came from my family and my relatives. I also found books that made a strong impression to me. I was astonished by the Nazi idiocy. One of the things I found most remarkable was Heinrich Himmler's racial ideas. He had a background as a chicken farmer before he became one of the leading figures within the German Nazis. It was just as a chicken farmer he found the basis for his ideas. I told about these ideas to my friends at Arjeplog.

Theft of sperm

In the recent past (autumn 2016) I have gotten the information that I have been part of a larger project. I want to thank people within the NWO for their willingness to disclose this fact. NWO has early, unknown to me, appointed me as a suitable supplier of sperm. The main reason is my royalist heritage. I have analysed the information that I received. My conclusion is the following:

At least five of my partners have stolen my sperm. The first thefts have occurred already in the mid 60's. The sperm has been used for the production of children who later ended up in professional fields such as music, film, media, sports, etc. The women who have been inseminated have known my identity. They have brought this information to the produced children. How many children in total produced is difficult to estimate, but at present I believe that there are at least 200 off. What I suffered is of course unacceptable. It also reflects the madness that's within the fascism - an ideology that places itself completely outside of our society. What steps I will take due what has occurred is impossible to determine right now. The produced children are innocent. Their identity will not be disclosed by me. My hope is that some of them want to appear voluntarily to shed light on the terrible crime that I suffered. The aim is to crush the fascist's business i.e. stealing sperm to produce children. After growing up they are supposed to work within specific professional areas. I am very much concerned about this business. All genetic research has documented the risks of starting a family with a close relative. In a system where sperm is inseminated from the same man at a larger scale it increases the risk to unconscious half siblings to establish a family. Within the relatively small industries like music, movie and media, I consider the risk to be imminent.
